Sprawling L.A. County: Is it time to break it up?

Secessionists want to pull out now, cite one group governing 78 separate cities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Secession fever is gripping the most populous county in the United States.

Residents of its many scattered communities, complaining of neglect, isolation from the seat of power and burdensome taxes, are saying they want to break up Los Angeles County, home of 7.3 million people.

"There are 78 cities in Los Angeles County and an overlay of county government of mammoth proportions," said Jack Baum, who heads a committee looking into secession of the residential-minded San Fernando Valley. "What we have now is government by crisis."

Proponents say the county has become unmanageable and that its breakup into smaller counties is inevitable. Talk of secession has been going on for years, but it is finally being turned into action.

The Santa Clarita Valley, a farming area in the northwest corner of the county, has taken the first step toward breaking away and forming Canyon County. Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. signed a bill in February laying the groundwork for the proposed 66,000-resident county.

A five-member commission, yet to be appointed by Brown, will make a six-month study for submission to county voters.

"We're completely separated geographically from Los Angeles County," said Daniel Hon, chairman of the Canyon County Formation Committee. "We're surrounded by mountains on all sides. It's 40 miles to the county seat (Los Angeles). It's even in a different telephone area code."

The Santa Clarita Valley is not alone in its desire for secession.

The sprawling San Gabriel Valley, including Pasadena and more than a dozen smaller communities, wants to form its own county. So does the South Bay area, extending south from Los Angeles along the coast.

Elected officials from the Pomona Valley area participated in meetings with San Gabriel Valley officials during recent months but no local city councils have yet actually called for secession from Los Angeles County although there has been much criticism of county government.

The San Fernando Valley wants to secede from both the county and the city of Los Angeles and form a city-county government. The city of Los Angeles, meanwhile, is also studying formation of a city-county. San Francisco now has the only city-county government in California.

"The breakup is inevitable," said Louis T. Gilbertson, mayor of Temple City and leader of the San Gabriel Valley secessionists.

Los Angeles County, with 4,060 square miles, stretches from the ocean to the Mojave Desert and is crisscrossed by mountain ranges that slice it up into isolated valleys.

It is larger than Delaware and Rhode Island and nearly the size of Connecticut. Its population is larger than all but six states. Its budget of $3 billion exceeds that of 30 other states. Yet it is governed by only five men, a board of supervisors with the power of executive and legislative decisions.

Thousands welcome Ford in L.A.

Colorful and noisy welcome at airport from young boosters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — About 2,000 screaming Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and their younger counterparts greeted President Ford as he arrived here for a round of fund-raising campaign appearances Friday.

The youngsters, most of them in scout uniforms, gave Ford a colorful and noisy welcome on a sunny but windy day at International Airport.

The wind tugged at their troop flags and tore some paper banners that offered cheerful, hand-painted greetings to the President.

The children were squished like sardines against a metal fence. As the presidential plane wheeled up, a drum began thumping. The President stepped out of the plane, unbuttoning his coat, and walked to one end of the crowd, shaking hands with the children along the line.

Ford then went to a microphone to answer reporters' questions prior to his departure for the hotel and a $1,000-a-plate dinner hosted by former CIA Director John McCone.

When a reporter commented most of the airport greeters weren't of voting age, the President grinned and said, "No, but they're nice kids and I love 'em."

Tony Svetko, a 13-year-old boy scout from Bellflower, said he shook Ford's hand and said he was "very happy" about it.

"Yeah, it was far out," said Mike Crowley, 12, another Bellflower scout who shared the honor.

"Yeah, it was real neat," they agreed.

The Mission Viejo High School marching band also was on hand at the airport for the arrival.

Kuhlman left $260,000, but not to church

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Evangelist Kathryn Kuhlman, whose followers contributed thousands of dollars to her ministry during her lifetime, left nothing to any church or to her foundation when she died.

Instead, she divided about $260,000 among three family members and 20 employes and left the remainder of her reportedly large estate — including stocks, antiques, art, property and a plush suburban home — to a Tulsa, Okla., automobile salesman and his wife who were close personal friends.

Dana Barton Wilkerson Jr. and his wife, Sue, the salesman and his wife, will not know the exact value of the Kuhlman estate until an inventory is completed in about two months, Miss Kuhlman's attorney said, adding that taxes and fees will greatly diminish that bequest.

2 unions sign; L.V. hotels plan to reopen

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)-Jubilant picketers put away their placards Friday after an agreement was signed between operators of 15 strip hotels and the culinary and bartenders unions, ending a 15-day strike.

Only a few pickets representing the stagehands union continued picket duty as negotiations continued to complete an agreement for 250 stagehands.

About 11,000 bartenders and culinary workers were told they could return to their jobs as soon as the clubs reoponed. Most of the clubs said they would reopen today.

That would allow casinos and hotels to reopen their doors but until the stagehands strike is settled, showrooms would remain dark.

Leaders of the culinary and bartenders unions were in a quandary late Friday night trying to decide whether members would be asked to cross picket lines of stagehands and musicians if those two unions have not finalized their contracts by the time clubs began opening.

"We will just have to face that when and if it presents itself," said Jeff McColl, a union spokesman, adding that he was hopeful that a final settlement was at hand.

The culinary and bartender contracts were subject to a ratification vote by members, but union leaders said they would send their members back to work pending the vote which will be held in about a week.

The 800-member musicians union signed a tentative agreement with the hotels Friday. The culinary and bartenders unions reached agreement on new contracts with the hotels earlier.

"Someone came along and said the culinary workers could go home and in a flash everybody was gone," said a stagehand member on the picket line. "Everybody expected it. They were laughing and pretty happy. They just packed up their signs and went home."

U.S. and Turkey sign defense pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Turkey signed on Friday a new four-year agreement restoring U.S. privileges at defense facilities in Turkey which were closed down last summer.

Although details were not made public, the agreement is believed to carry a price tag of $1 billion in U.S. aid to Turkey for the life of the accord.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Turkish Foreign Minister Ihsan S. Caglayangil signed for their respective countries at a formal ceremony held four hours after their final negotiating session. Both hailed the agreement as ushering in a new era of U.S.-Turkish cooperation.

The agreement represents a major step toward ending the major crisis of confidence between the two countries which has existed ever since Congress imposed a U.S. arms embargo against Turkey 13 months ago.

The agreement, subject to congressional approval, means the United States will regain access to several intelligence gathering facilities used for monitoring military activities inside the Soviet Union.

About two dozen military and intelligence facilities are affected by the agreement. U.S. privileges at these installations were suspended last July, five months after the arms embargo went into effect.

Both countries decided not to make public details of the agreement until Monday.

147 feared dead as ship burns, sinks

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — A coastal ferry boat burned and sank near the port city of Jeremie and it is feared 147 persons perished, the Haitian coast guard announced Friday.

It said there were three survivors, who told authorities fire broke out aboard the Sauveur and it went down in rough seas at 11 a.m. EST Wednesday.

The exact number of victims could not be determined, the coast guard said, because no passenger list was made, but it was believed that about 150 persons boarded the vessel in Dame Marie 120 miles west of Port Au Prince.

All the victims were Haitians, according to the coast guard.

It said the survivors were picked up by a fisherman in a small sailboat. They told authorities a fire started about two hours after the Sauveur left Dame Marie and the vessel sank two hours later about six miles north of Jeremie.

Authorities said the report of the tragedy did not arrive in Port Au Prince until Friday

Oklahoma towns hit by tornadoes; 3 die

SPIRO, Okla. (AP) — Three persons were killed and more than 55 injured Friday when a tornado tore up parts of two eastern Oklahoma towns.

The tornado first hit Talihina and then dipped down several times in Spiro, 45 miles to the northwest.

Five persons were seriously injured in the Talihina area and at least 10 homes were destroyed.

The dead in Spiro were identified as Marvin Trout, 30, who was holding a family reunion at his house when the twister struck at 3:45 p.m., and Ray Dean Phillips, about 35, from Mooreland, Okla. The third victim was not identified. Three other persons were missng.

the force of the tornado derailed 40 cars of a train that was passing through Spiro when the twister struck. No injuries were reported from the derailment.

Many of the injured came from a trailer park in the southeast part of the downtown Spiro area. The vocational school was southwest of the business section but the downtown area escaped major damage.

Oklahoma Gov. David Boren called up the National Guardsmen to help local authorities in cleanup and security.

Damage in the Talihina area was limited to 10 to 15 destroyed houses because the twister missed the town by several miles, the Oklahoma Hghway Patrol reported.

3 die, 9 hurt; gondola cars crash on ski slope

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Three persons were killed and nine were injured Friday when two aerial gondola cars carrying skiers to the top of Vail Mountain crashed 60 feet to the ground.

The accident shut off power to the overhead cable-driven system and stranded more than 400 skiers riding in other gondolas. Ski patrolmen used a pulley system with rope and canvas seats to lower skiers individually from the 67 stranded cars. Each car can carry six skiers.

The victims were identified as Janice K. Pasterkamp, 14, of Englewood, Colo.; Darlene Reese, 42, of Custer, S.D., and Karen Toghtnan, 19, of Palos Park, Ill.

Officials said at least six of the nine injured were in critical condition at St. Anthony Hospital in Denver.

The gondola carries skiers 2,178 feet from the base of the mountain to the 10,000-foot elevation.

Witnesses said the two enclosed fiberglass and steel cars either collided when one broke from the overhead cable or one hit a steel support tower as it traveled up the mountains.

Howard Bronson of Vail said one car apparently became stuck at the support tower, snapped from the cable and crashed to the ground. The second car hit the support bar of the first car and snapped off, he said.

Bronson, who was skiing near the accident site, said a third car hit the jammed debris and slid back down the cable.

Brown to use $6 million to create jobs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Brown administration is going to spend $6 million in federal jobs money, and it is looking at several new ways to spend the funds, the state employment director said Friday.

Martin Glick, director of the state Department of Employment Development, said the areas being considered include energy conservation, solar energy and park maintenance.

"Our project concepts seek to offer low-income persons temporary employment which satisfies a real economic, social or ecological need while at the same time training the workers in job skills with future demand potential in the job market," Glick said.

Glick said in an interview that the kinds of projects his department was looking at were a "clear indication we think experimental one-year money should be spent."

He added that because the federal program only provides the money for a one-year span, he thinks the money should be used in a way that leaves communities "with projects of worth."

In the past, he said such federal money was often used in a way that raised people's expectations it would continue.

Instead, Glick said, the fund should be funneled into actual projects, like housing rehabilitation.

Glick said he had discussed job philosophy in broad terms with Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., but had not talked with him about these specific proposals.

The department will choose from the applications it receives by May 21.

Other job training programs might involve waste water treatment technicians, rehabilitation of low income neighborhoods, weather proofing technicians and preparation and painting of public buildings.

Book tells of his drinking, suicide hints

Nixon: a broken man after Watergate

NEW YORK (AP) — A new book by Washington Post reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein presents a picture of former President Richard M. Nixon in his last days at the White House as a totally broken man, drinking too much, crying and threatening suicide.

The book says chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., was so concerned about the suicide possibility in the days before Aug. 9, 1974, that he ordered "that all pills be denied the President and that the sleeping pills and tranquilizers he already had be taken away."

Nixon and other principals in the book could not be reached for comment.

The book, "The Final Days," will be published next month by Simon and Schuster. The New York Daily News and Time magazine say the book has been closely guarded. Reports on the book were included in Time's current issue and in the News on Friday.

Newsweek magazine on Friday released the first of a series of excerpts of the book that it will run, beginning Monday.

Among the highlights is a report that two days before his resignation, Nixon summoned Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"The two men sat for a long time and reminisced ... The President was drinking," the book says.

Finally, the book says, "The President broke down and sobbed ... What had he done to the country and its people? How had it come to this? How had a simple burglary ... done all this..."

Kissinger tried to calm the President, but failed, the book says. "Nixon ... was hysterical. 'Henry,' he said, 'you are not a very Orthodox Jew and I am not an orthodox Quaker, but we need to pray.'"

Nixon got down on his knees and Kissinger joined him, the book says. "The President prayed out loud, asking for help, rest, peace and love ... Kissinger thought he had finished. But the President did not rise. He was weeping. And then, still sobbing, Nixon leaned over, striking his fist on the carpet, crying, 'What have I done? What has happened?'"

Woodward and Bernstein write that Kissinger held Nixon and tried to console him, until the President rose to his feet. A bit later, Kissinger returned to his office, where he got a call from Nixon.

Kissinger aide Lawrence Eagleburger listened in. "That was the custom," the book says. "Kissinger rarely took a call alone.

"Eagleburger was shocked. The President was slurring his words. He was drunk. He was out of control."

The book says Eagleburger finally hung up. "The President had one last request: 'Henry, please don't ever tell anyone that I cried and that I was not strong.'"

The News said that Nixon's son-in-law, David Eisenhower, expressed concern for Nixon's mental condition, reporting to an aide that he had seen the President, intoxicated, talking to the portraits of former presidents.

Second trial scheduled for convicted slayer

Gregory Thomas, a 21-year-old Pomonan recommended for the death penalty in the rape and slaying of a 78-year-old former missionary nurse, has been granted a new trial.

The ruling, based on new evidence claimed by Thomas' attorney Joe Borges Jr. of Pomona, was made Thursday by Pomona Superior Court Judge Robert M. Takasugi. The second trial was scheduled for May 10.

Takasugi presided over the first trial last November which ended in Thomas' conviction by a jury on charges of burglary, rape and first-degree murder. The defendant maintained, however, that when he and a companion entered Tessie Fern Williams' small house in Pomona he found her already dead on the floor. He said that he had gone there with Rodney Edward Cole, 24, Pomona, to pick up a television set Cole claimed belonged to him.

Cole refused to testify at Thomas' trial under the fifth amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

Lathers get hospital job

The National Labor Relations Board has awarded work at Pacific State Hospital to lathers who work for Pacific Coast Fireproofing Inc.

The job entails installation of furring bars, drywall channel for screw attachments and drywall work at the hospital.

The project was sought by the Carpenters Union, whose representative felt the work properly belonged to them.

The NLRB settled the jurisictional dispute Friday by ruling that the assignment of the work was "consistent with the employer's past practices," and that such an assignment to the lathers "would result in more efficient and economical operation."

The board emphasized that it was not awarding the job to the lather's union itself, but rather to the lathers represented by the union who were working for the fireproofing company.

Pacific Coast Fireproofing was a prime contractor on the job.

Man's death puzzles police

A West Covina man died in a bizarre shooting-auto accident Friday in Hacienda Heights that has investigators puzzled.

The man, identified by Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies, was Robert Stanley Hayes, 42.

Hayes was pronounced dead on arrival at Queen of the Valley Hospital shortly after the 3 a.m. accident. It was first believed that the cause of death was from injuries sustained when his car slammed into a utility pole, but doctors then discovered a bullet hole in the back of Hayes' head.

The area around the scene of the accident, Hacienda Boulevard and Lujon Street, was sealed off as dupties began looking for possible clues that a sniper had shot Hayes.

Fire causes $5,000 in San Dimas home

Music paper stored next to a floor furnace at 415 Cannon Ave., San Dimas caused $8,000 damage to the structure and living room contents of the home in a fire Thursday.

The San Dimas station of the Los Angeles County Fire Department received the call at 10:52 a.m. and responded with four engine companies and a rescue squad.

Paper piano music stored in a corner next to the heater ignited and burned a hole in the floor of the residence. There was heavy smoke damage throughout the house although the fire was contained within the living room area.

Firemen estimated $5,000 damage to the structure and another $3,000 damage to contents, including living room furniture, a piano and carpet.

Cyclist, 6, hit by car

A 6-year-old girl suffered a head injury Thursday afternoon when she was hit by a car while riding a bicycle at San Jose Avenue near Lehigh Avenue in Claremont.

The victim, Dawn Marie Fletcher, 548 W. San Jose Ave., Claremont, was reported in serious condition today in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit.

The motorist, Brenda Sue Hewitt, 22, 4829 Canoga Ave., Montclair, told police that the child rode off the curb and into the path of her car between two parked cars. Officers said it appeared that she was knocked 100 feet.

Spotlight on crime

Two alleged heroin smugglers caught

Pomona police carrying arrest warrants seized two alleged heroin smugglers Friday morning and were looking for two other suspects.

Detectives arrested Rudy Rios, 25, at 795 N. Washington Ave., and Salvador Guzman Vera, 26, at 707 S. Myrtle Ave., and booked them on charges of offering heroin for sale. In making the arrests officers said they confiscated $1,590 in large bills and two 9 mm. automatic pistols.

Detective Elias Zambrano Jr. said the department also holds warrants, issued by Pomona Municipal Court Judge Thomas Nuss, calling for the arrest of Juan Guzman Vera, 24, of 1344 W. Grand Ave., Pomona, and Alexander Garza, 43, of 929 Del Mar Ave., Montclair. Garza is the owner of the El Patio bar at Second Street and White Avenue in Pomona, Zambrano said.

Rios and Salvador Vera were being held Friday in lieu of $20,000 bail each while bail on the warrants for Juan Vera and Garza was $100,000 and $50,000 respectively.

The warrants were obtained following a lengthy investigation by Pomona detectives Zambrano and Larry Todd working with the Los Angeles Police Department and state narcoticss officers.

Zambrano described the four men as major heroin smugglers who use illegal aliens to transport the contraband from Tijuana to Pomona.

Barber pole stolen

Someone stole Ralph Upshaw's new red, white and blue electric barber pole from in front of his Pomona shop and Upshaw would like it back.

The pole, which he recently installed in front of 729 E. Mission Blvd., was taken sometime Thursday night or early Friday. The thief had to remove two bolts anchoring it to the wall of the building. Upshaw said.

The revolving pole was valued at $150 and was made of cast iron. Upshaw said he suspects it may become a patio decoration.

Won't permit curbside delivery

Claremont beats government to the mail box

In anticipation of passage of a federal law, the Claremont City Council has held first reading of an ordinance which would make it unlawful to put a mailbox at curbside.

A bill before the U.S. Senate requires front door or curbside delivery of mail to all permanent residential addresses and specifically requires front door delivery if a local zoning ordinance prohibits mail boxes along curbsides.

The new city ordinance states that for reasons of safety in maintaining a dedicated right-of-way free from obstructions, the city has required that mail boxes be affixed to the dwelling unit rather than free standing at curbside.

The city and developers became irked last June upon learning that the Postal Service had initiated a new policy of requiring curbside delivery for all new residences or the rental of a post office box for mail delivery.

Augumenting the new policy meant drilling holes into the concrete sidewalks next to the curbs for mail boxes or allowing mail boxes to be placed with portable bases at the curb on a temporary measure.

Congressman Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., introduced a bill which would amend the federal policy, but it has not been passed.

A second bill, HR 8583, has more chance for passage, city officials said.

Officials are hopeful of swift passage because hundreds of homes are being built or planned in newly annexed areas north of Base Line Road, and they do not want to see curbs lined with mailboxes.

City Atty. William Bergman said that the City Council wanted the new ordinance put into the municipal code, not the subdivision ordinance, and so the new law affects all residences in Claremont.

The new ordinance will go into effect 30 days after the council adopts it.

In other matters Tuesday, the council referred to the city staff for inclusion in the building code for new construction the following Environmental Quality Board recommendations:

— Flush toilets reduced from five to three gallons.

— Low-flow shower heads with manual shut-off devices.

— Insulation of hot water pipes to allow a minimum heat loss of 50 BTU's per hour per foot for two-inch diameter pipes, and 100 BTU's per hour per foot for pipes greater than 2 inches in diameter.

— Flow reduction devices on sinks, lavatory and bathtub faucets.

— The use of three-quarter-inch water mains rather than one-inch mains on most residential lots.

EQB Vice-chairman Larry Oglesby reported that the average person uses 185 gallons of water a day.

He said that 45 per cent is flushed down toilets, 30 per cent is used for bathing, 20 per cent for laundry and dishwashing and 5 per cent for drinking and other personal use.

Upon recommendation of the city Human Resources Commission, the council has approved that group meeting only once a month, instead of every two weeks, and approved reducing the membership from nine to seven.

Water switchover scheduled

3 area communities in for hard times—temporarily

Hard water from the Colorado River that will make cleaning more difficult is coming to the southern part of the valley.

The state disclosed plans to shut off its softer Northern California supply to much of the Southland next Wednesday so it can modify its Devil's Canyon power plant north of San Bernardino.

This means, according to Stan Kawa, general manager of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, that residents of Diamond Bar, Walnut and Rowland Heights, which normally get a blend of the two water supplies, will only receive the hard Colorado River import during the shutdown.

There will be no change in water quality for other valley communities which either totally depend on the Colorado River or have sufficient water in their wells to fill their own needs for the duration.

Kawa said the shutdown is expected to last 41 days.

He said the Colorado River water is four times as hard as the Northern California supply.

"Water users in the south are now getting a blend that contains about 81 parts of hardness per million gallons from the Northern California supply and 335 parts from the Colorado," he explained. "Now the import will include a lot more chlorine and alkali."

He said this was the first time since the feeder route was opened nearly a year ago that the state Department of Water Resources has shut off the Northern California water.

But there have been times in the past when the hard water from the Colorado was increased for maintenance reasons. Then residents would complain about the quality of their water, Kawa said.

He urged water users in the Walnut, Diamond Bar and Rowland areas — an estimated 15,000 customers — to stock up with additional soap, shampoo and detergents because "it will take more of those supplies and more work to do normal cleaning jobs with the hard water."

Kawa said industrial water users may have to adjust their production systems and boiler scale units and to make other technical changes to compensate for the different water quality.

Safety of nuclear plant is disputed

The critical emergency safety systems on atomic power plants never have been fully tested, said a speaker before Foothill Branch members of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers recently in Upland.

Lewis Forsheit, representing Californians for Yes on Proposition 15, urged support of the nuclear safeguards proposition which will appear on the June ballot.

It will establish a legislative procedure to insure that California has the best possible safety standards for future operation of atomic plants, Forsheit said.

"It would be morally wrong to obligate ourselves to any more nuclear power plants until the serious safety problems are faced and answered," said Forsheit, a Columbia University graduate with bachelor's and master's degrees in electrical engineering.

"We do have energy alternatives. We don't have to rush into nuclear power until safety systems have been proven effective."

Masterson gun sold: $36,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nickel-plated six-shooter said to be once owned by legendary sheriff Bat Masterson has been sold for $36,000 to an unnamed private collector at an auction here.

A spokeswoman for Sotheby Park Bernet Gallery said Sunday the Colt .45 normally would have sold for $300 to $500

Sunset rail plan too costly—Schabarum

Supervisor Peter Schabarum has attacked the proposed "Sunset Coastline" rail transportation system as "much too costly for us and for future generations."

The system, part of a 232-mile rapid transit network proposed by Supervisor Baxter Ward, is being supported by Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley.

Schabarum's attack came during a meeting of the Southern California Rapid Transit District director. The First District supervisor said he was "astonished" that Bradley could support the plan.

He said the proposal would range in cost from $7½ billion to $11 billion and had been criticized by a panel of city experts as well as by RTD consultants.

Schabarum contended that even though the "cost is astronomical it will in no way improve air quality or conserve energy."

Also included in the plan is a subway tunnel beneath the Wilshire Boulevard corridor that would cost $60 million a mile to build.

Navy gets first Dynamics missile

The first Sparrow missile built by the General Dynamics plant in Pomona has been delivered to the U.S. Navy.

The air-to-air missile will next undergo a series of tests to qualify General Dynamics as a second source producer of the all-weather, radar-guided Sparrow.

Government testing will be conducted at the Pacific Missile Test Center at Point Mugu.

The Pomona plant is also manufacturing test and qualification target seeker assemblies and flight controls, key elements of the guidance set in the Sparrow which is the principal air-to-air missile for Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps fighter planes.

The local project is conducted under a multi-phased contract awarded in 1973 by the Naval Air Systems Command.

Traffic stop nets 6 illegals

Six illegal aliens, two of them women, were arrested Monday afternoon by Pomona police as the result of a traffic violation.

The six were scheduled to be turned over to U.S. Border Patrol officers sometime today for return to Mexico. All six lived at 608 N. Currier St.

Police stopped a car containing three aliens at Holt and White avenues and their arrest led to the arrest of the other three at the Currier Street address. Those seized were Jose Luis Diaz, 22, Jose De Jesus Padilla, 21, Serrato Jesus Diaz, 21, Alfredo Serrato Diaz, 26, Guadaleupe Herrera Garcia, 19, and Maria Diaz Garcia, 48.

Inmate at CIM knifed

A 28-year-old California Institution for Men inmate was hospitalized Friday with a stab wound of the chest following an attack at the prison.

Gerald Shill, serving a sentence for conviction of murder out of Los Angeles County, was attacked about 8:30 a.m. as he was walking with other prisoners to sick call. Correctional officers noticed Shill staggering back into the hall holding his chest minutes after the Prisoners were released, authorities said.

According to prison doctors Shill suffered a single minor stab wound in the attack. He was being held in the hospital for observation.

Authorities said that no prisoners have been arrested in the incident, but a general "shakedown" search for weapons was conducted in the maximum security unit immediately after the stabbing.

Shrine circus tickets shower on valley kids

More than 650 valley youngsters will experience the thrills and excitement of the annual Shrine Circus in Los Angeles April 8-11, thanks to a joint effort of the San Dimas sheriff's substation and Shriners.

Lt. Oscar Desilva of the sheriff's substation, a member of the Al Malaikah Temple, contacted Robert G. Meyer, ticket chairman for the annual affair. The Shriners then donated the tickes to the San Dimas station for distribution to community groups.

Representatives of 14 organizations gathered at the station early Friday morning for the distribution of tickets by Capt. Bill Baker, station commander; Sgt. Leonard Tyko, community relations officer; Desilva; Meyer and Councilman Philip Wax.

Among the group representatives attending the distribution were Gary Bean, program director, McKinely Home for Boys, San Dimas; Laurie Wolfrom, Kelley Edwards, John Lisby and Al Caro of the Teen Club, Holy Name of Mary Catholic Church; Elaine Schubert, children's coordinator of the San Dimas United Methodist Church; Mrs. Dorothy White of Emmanuel Baptist Church; Robert Shimansky, recreation director of Leroy Boys' Home, La Verne; Mrs. Margaret LaRue of David and Margaret Home for Children, La Verne; Sgt. William Sanders of the San Dimas Station Explorer Scouts, Margaret Jones of Brownie Troop 73 and Junior Troop 373 of Magnolia School, Azusa; Carl Masnec Jr. of Boy Scout Troop 777, sponsored by the South Diamond Bar Merchants Association.

Representatives of the East San Gabriel Valley School in Covina, a school for handicapped children; the San Dimas Senior Citizens Club; San Dimas Open Door; and Lone Hill Intermediate School in San Dimas will pick up their tickets today.

Meyer said that more than 20,000 youngsters are treated to free tickets for the circus at the Shrine Auditorium, including handicapped and underprivileged youth.

Chino gets 5.7% rate for school bonds

The Chino School District has sold $1,965,000 in bonds to Security Pacific Bank to finance construction of additions to various schools.

The sale was part of an $8.5 million construction bond issue approved by district voters last November.

Security Bank was the low bidder on the bonds at a 5.71 per cent interest rate. Five bids were received, with Bank of America coming in second at 5.78 per cent.

Monies from the bond issue will be used to build relocatable buildings at El Rancho, Marshall, Newman and Walnut elementary schools. Funds also will be utilized for additions at Glenmeade and for buying one school site, according to officials.

In a related matter, the school board this week accepted a low bid from Dynafab of Burbank in the amount of $525,000 for construction of the relocatables at El Rancho, Marshall, Newman and Walnut.

Tip leads to arrest, 4 drug convictions

A citizen whose information aided the West End Narcotics Team in the arrest and ultimate conviction of four persons on narcotics violations may pick up his or her reward from We Turn in Pushers Inc. (We T.I.P.).

The citizen, who anonymously called in valuable information to We T.I.P. and was given the code number GH 5609, may pick up his reward at the prearranged drop point, said Bill Brownell, director of the statewide We T.I.P. program.

Brownell said his information led to the arrest of Mark Orr, 21, of Ontario; Steve Keogh, 22, of Upland; Darryl Lime, 21, of Upland; and Robert Bell, 18, of Ontario for narcotics violations. Drugs involved in the cases were LSD, amphetimines, and PCP. The four have been convicted of narcotics violations.

Persons who have information about suspected narcotics pushers may anonymously call We T.I.P. at 800-472-7785. The information will be turned over to the appropriate police agency.

Hanger collapse injures 5 men

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — A Navy industrial safety team is investigating the collapse of a $6.2 million hangar being built at North Island Naval Air Station.

S.D. council bans expansion for nonconforming properties

Over the objections of two councilmen, the San Dimas City Council has approved two ordinances prohibiting building and conditional use permits for uses inconsistent with the General Plan.

Councilmen Jim Lough and James McLean charged that the ordinances were designed to specifically harass and drive out Harold Bromberger, owner of A-Z Transfer Co. at Monte Vista Avenue and Railway Street.

Bromberger would need a conditional use permit to expand.

City Atty. Norman Oliver and Mayor Marvin Ersher assured the council that the ordinances were designed to close gaps between the zoning map and General Plan in order to prevent development of property that did not conform with the General Plan.

The A-Z Transfer Co. issue merely brought to staff attention that there were loopholes in development laws that could be detrimental to the city and cause problems in development, they indicated.

Oliver said the Los Angeles City Council had also adopted similar ordinances recently.

The two ordinances were passed 3-2 as first readings when an urgency ordinance, requiring four-fifths approval, on identical issues failed to pass with a 3-2 vote. The urgency ordinance would have gone into effect immediately as opposed to the usual 30-day delay.

The A-Z Transfer Co., said Oliver, is a non-conforming use as a light manufacturing operation in a residential zone. The owners may operate the business for 25 years before having to move.

Nearly two years ago, residents along Commercial Street which faces the warehouse operation complained about the stacks of equipment and other storables outside the building and the large trucks that continually plagued the neighborhood.

The city began attempts in early 1974 to get Bromberger to conform and screen the area from public view, but met with continual opposition from the property owners. Finally, the matter was referred to the county District Attorney's Office in late 1975 where the owners were legally admonished to comply.

McLean accused Wax and Dipple of joining with Ersher to drive out this particular business in order to fulfill election promises.

"It is an universal ordinance," Ersher replied. "This loophole could jeopardize the entire General Plan of the community. And to jeopardize this plan would be a derelection of our duty. It is not directed against any particular individual."

After the ordinance were approved, Oliver stated that during the 30 days after final adoption of the ordinance a moratorium declared by the council will prohibit the issuance of building and conditional use permits for any uses inconsistent with the General Plan.

Bromberger labeled the neighborhood immediately south of A-Z Transfer Co. "a bad seed in the first place, a bad area from start to finish. It's a big eyesore. Most of the houses are falling down."

He said he had been willing to beautify the area by putting in a garden and trying to keep the trucks off the street.

"These ordinances are not designed to hurt you," answered Wax. "It is our responsibility to close those gaps. It's a situation where you never offered the people in the area anything and they had to take you to court. Now you're willing to talk. They were willing to talk before."

UCLA, Indiana replay 'forgotten' game

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unbeaten Rutgers meets Michigan in a matchup of racehorse styles, and Indiana, also unbeaten, pits its bruising game against slick UCLA Saturday afternoon in the championship semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Coach Tom Young's Rutgers team is a one-point underdog despite 31 straight victories, while Indiana is a five-point favorite to eliminate defending champion UCLA.

Indiana, 30-0, the nation's No. 1 team entering the NCAA playoffs, buried the Bruins by 20 points in the first game of the season. It could be a psychological edge, since the Hoosiers know they can beat UCLA, or it could work in reverse, making Indiana overconfident and provideing extra incentive for the Bruins.

Coach Gene Bartow claims his fifth-ranked UCLA team has forgotten that opening holocaust.

"I know I have," says the bespectacled Bartow, who succeeded a legend when he took over from the retired John Wooden this season. UCLA has won 10 of the last 12 national titles, and in one stretch took seven straight.

"I quit worrying about that first Indiana game in mid-January," says Bartow. "That was simply a first game under a new coach. I was running a lot of people in and out, trying to see what we had, what worked best. Now I feel we're much stronger."

Indiana advanced through the toughest bracket in the rounds leading to the championship semifinals. The poised Hoosiers, apparently feeling no pressure from their unbeaten status, defeated St. John's, Alabama and No. 2 ranked Marquette.

UCLA's road was a little easier, but the Bruins didn't exactly blow anybody out as they beat San Diego State, Pepperdine and Arizona. Still, UCLA has three tournament tested veterans in forwards Marques Johnson and Richard Washington and guard Andre McCarter, who was a schoolboy stat in Philadelphia four years ago.

In addition, Bartow has Ralph Drollinger, 7-1¾ senior, who lost his starting center job to 6-10 freshman Dave Greenwood. The 6-10½ Washington leads the Bruins' scoring with a 20.6 average, while Johnson has hit 17 per game. McCarter is the team's quarterback and has scored 8.7 points per game.

A tipoff on Indiana's ability is that despite a 30-0 record, Coach Bobby Knight insists that his team has yet to play to its ability. "I don't know if anybody can," he said.

Indiana is a tight-fisted, regimented team, built in the image of its fiery coach. You rarely see an Indiana player take a shot from more than 18 feet. And the Hoosiers play brutal defense.

However, Indiana's physical tactics could be a detriment against UCLA, if the officials are calling things close.

Indiana is keyed by a pair of All-Americans, 6-7 senior Scott May, the Associated Press college player of the year, and 611 Kent Benson.

May averaged 23.7 points per game, shooting 53.2 percent from the field and 77.8 at the free throw line. He also collected 7.8 rebounds a game. Benson, a junior, has hit 17.1 points per game, 58.7 from the field. He's averaged 8.8 on rebounds.

Not that the Hoosiers are a two-man team by any means. Seniors Tom Abernethy and Bobby Wilkerson, both 6-7, and Quinn Buckner, 6-3, give Knight a solid first five. Indiana also has bench strength, although Knight tends to go mostly with his starters in most games.

"This will be the first time all season we've been the underdog, and I'm glad," said Young, whose Rutgers team battled past Princeton, Connecticut and VMI to reach the final four.

"Let someone else have the pressure for a change," added Young. "All season we've not only been expected to win, but to win big. But we'll prove we're not a mirage and belong here."

Michigan Coach John Orr isn't exactly overjoyed that his Big 10 runnerup is favored over a team that hasn't lost. "That sounds nutty to me," said Orr. "Any team that is 31-0 should be favored."

But Orr isn't trying to play down the ability of his ninth-ranked Wolverines, 24-6. They reached the semifinals through a tough bracket, beating Wichita State, Notre Dame and Missouri.

Michigan lost twice during the regular season to Indiana, once in overtime after the Hoosiers tied it at the buzzer.

Fourth-ranked Rutgers depends on the run-and-gun tactics od guards Eddie Jordan and Mike Dabney and All-American forward Phil Sellers, the team's top scorer who has managed only 37 points in the previous three tournament games. The 6-foot-5 Sellers and Jim Bailey, a 6-9 freshman center, are the key to the boards and the Scarlet Knights' devastating fast break.

Michigan's offense is led by Rickey Green, a transfer from Vincennes Junior College who has averaged 20.1 points per game. Freshman Phil Hubbard, 6-7, has scored at a 15.2 clip but more importantly averages 10.9 rebounds. Steve Grote, a tough junior guard, also is a key player for the Wolverines.

Montgomery sets freestyle record

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Jim Montgomery took back the American record he loaned Bruce Furniss only seven hours earlier and won the 500-yard freestyle Friday night at the NCAA Swimming and Diving championships at Brown University.

Montgomery, a senior at Indiana University, had lost his American standard to Furniss in the preliminaries Friday afternoon. But he reclaimed it with an electrifying wire-to-wire victory.

Later, the University of Southern California set an incredible American record in the 800-yard freestyle relay. Bruce Furniss, who had jumped the gun at the world championships at Cali, Colombia, last summer and cost an American 800-meter relay team the world record and a gold medal, swam a torrid fourth leg Friday night and brought home a rousing Trojan foursome in the American standard time of 6 minutes, 33.12 seconds—nearly 2½ seconds faster than the former mark of 6:35.61 set by a different Southern Cal team in 1975.

In a stunning race in which Tennessee and Alabama also bettered the previous American mark, the Trojans were nearly unbelievable. The Southern Cal foursome included, in order, John Naber, Dick Hannula, Scott Findorff and Furniss.

The heavily favored Trojans increased their runaway margin over Tennessee in an attempt to gain their third consecutive NCAA team title. The Trojans had 281 points while Tennessee had 151. Indiana was third with 136, followed by UCLA with 131 and Alabama with 77.

The Trojans' margin was built on victories by Naber in the 100-yard backstroke—his third straight title in that event—Rod Strachan in the 400-yard individual medley, and the record-setting relay team in the 800-yard freestyle.

The lettering was hardly dry on Bruce Furniss' 200-yard freestyle record of 1:36.91 when Montgomery left the blocks like a launched rocket and the other five swimmers spent the next 90 seconds trailing in his wake.

Montgomery, world record holder in the 100-meter freestyle, was timed in a blazing 1:36.53. Montgomery's previous record, set earlier in the year, was 1:37.65. Furniss, a freshman freestyle flash from the University of Southern California, was timed in 1:37.44. As consolation, Furniss still holds world records in the 200-meter freestyle and the 200-meter individual medley.

Hubert Green leading again

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hubert Green, beginning to tire under the strain of the hottest three-week streak in golf this season, stalked home with a 67 and assumed the second-round lead Friday in the $215,000 Sea Pines Heritage Classic.

"My poor li'l ol' brain cells have been working overtime for the past few weeks," Green said after compiling a two-round total of 135, one in front of Hale Irwin and seven under par on the 6,655 yards of swamp, scrub and seaside marsh, trees, traps and trouble that make up the Harbour Town Golf Links, probably the toughest course the touring pros encounter.

"My gosh, it's ridiculous," said Green, winner of the last two tour titles and now shooting for a rare third consecutive crown. "It's ridiculous, but it's happening, and it's enjoyable.

Lakers sail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 23 points Friday night as the Los Angeles Lakers belted the Atlanta Hawks 107-85 in National Basketball Association play.

The victory moved the Lakers into a second-place tie with the Seattle SuperSonics in the Pacific Division, one-half game ahead of the Phoenix Suns. The three teams are fighting for two playoff berths in the Western Conference.

Razzie Russell pumped in 15 points for the Lakers and Gail Goodrich added 14 as Los Angeles ran its home record to 29-9. Atlanta, losing its ninth consecutive game and 16th in a row on the road, was led by John Drew with 19 points and Lou Hudson with 14.

The Lakers shot 54 per cent in the third period and held the Hawks to just 37 points in the second half to coast to victory after leading by just three points at halftime.

Mets want Andy

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — General Manager Joe McDonald of the New York Mets said Friday his club had made "a very fair offer" to Andy Messersmith, the free agent pitcher.

McDonald said he had offered a multi-year contract, but would not disclose the amount of the offer. He did say, however, "It is less than we are prepared to pay Tom Seaver."

AL picks Toronto

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The American League made Toronto its 14th franchise Friday, awarding the Canadian city a team for the 1977 season at a price of $7 million to its purchaser, Labatt's Breweries.

Toronto was the second expansion site chosen by the AL for next year. Recently, the league granted a franchise to Seattle for a reported $6.3 million.

In selecting Toronto, the American League beat the National League to the punch. The NL, which had also wanted to expand to Toronto, had planned a meeting on the matter Monday and had asked Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to urge the AL to delay its vote. But the AL went ahead.

HERE'S THE PITCH

Claremont High pitcher Brad Kirkendall delivers pitch to Pomona's Alan Wells in Friday's SAL baseball action between the two schools. Wolfpack catcher is Brent Bossom. Claremont scored run in last of 10th inning to beat Pomona 5-4 and gain share of first place.

'Pack outlasts Pomona

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

In the most exciting San Antonio League contest of the year, Claremont High edged Pomona 5-4 in ten innings Friday at Claremont, thus tightening the league standings.

Pomona went into the game with a 3-0 mark, but now the Devils are 3-1, as are the Wolfpack and Montclair. All three clubs are tied for the SAL top-spot after two weeks of league action.

Friday's game between the 'Pack and the Devils had enough action to satisfy the most ardent baseball fancier. The contest featured plays of every sort imaginable, some impressive hitting, and some outstanding pitching.

In the final result it was Dick Bell's fifth hit of the game, a single in the last of the 10th, which drove home Jim Tullis with the game-winning tally.

Tullis had reached Pomona hurler Jackie Phillips for a two-out single in that frame, as he tossed his bat at a one-and-two Phillips delievery and connected for a ground single to left.

Phillips followed by walking Rob Haerr, and Bell then sent everyone home as his hot smash back through the middle was deflected by Phillips past Pomona second baseman Mike Hall into rightfield, Tullis scoring from second on the play.

Despite suffering the loss, Phillips had looked impressive in five scoreless relief innings prior to the 10th.

However, the 'Pack pitching was even better, as CHS starter Brad Kirkendall and reliever Leonard Peacock limited the powerful Pomona attack to only four hits, fanning 16 Devil batters in 10 innings.

Pomona, thanks to some early wildness by Kirkendall and some shoddy Wolfpack fielding, had taken a 3-0 lead after one and one-half innings. Claremont tied the game at 3-3 in the last of the second off Devil starter Mike Keegan, as Brent Bossom and Tim Dooling singled and Dan Healey laced a double to right.

Healey's two-bagger was misplayed in right, allowing the speedy Healey to scoot all around the bases, following Bossom and Dooling across home plate.

Keegan continued to struggle in the fourth, as Healey reached on a bunt single and scored the go-ahead run as Bell boomed a triple to right-center.

Kirkendall settle down after the shaky start and had fanned 10 Devils in five innings before weakening in the sixth. In that frame Hank Zibell blasted a triple to the gap in right-center and Joey Chapa cashed him in with a basehit up the middle.

The 'Pack had a golden opportunity to win the game in the last of the seventh, as Bell and Carl Cervantes reached with two away and Mike Davis lined a single to left. However, PHS leftfielder Brian Cochran made a great play on Davis' hit, fielding the ball on the run and gunning a strike to Devil catcher Kevin Johnson, who tagged Bell out at home, sending the game into extra frames.

Peacock used his curveball effectively to hold off PHS threats in the eighth and ninth, and Claremont finally reached Phillips for the game-winner in the last of the 10th. The final inning was played under the lights at the 'Pack diamond.

Bearcats take two-game lead

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

All-CIF pitcher Bill Bumstead of Bonita high is one pressure performer.

Bumstead blew down the last three Roman batters he faced after allowing the tying run to advance to second with no outs in the seventh inning as the Bearcats prevailed over Royal Oak Friday afternoon at Bonita, 3-2.

Bumstead led off the final inning by allowing a clean single up the middle to the Romans junior catcher, Chris Lancaster. Lancaster skipped to second on a wild throw by Bumstead, which was an excellent position for the visitors to be in with no outs yet recorded.

Bumstead, however, disposed of the next three Roman batters on called third strikes.

Bumstead is now a sparkling 5-0 on the year, to go along with an 0.55 ERA.

The 6-0 senior fireballer has also racked up 44 strikeouts in 38-1/3 innings this spring, including the nine K's he rolled up Friday (eight called third strikes).

Bonita now has a very comfortable two-game cushion in the Hacienda, as Walnut was put under wraps by Curt Burkhart and San Dimas, 1-0. The Bearcats are 5-0 in league play, with Royal Oak, Walnut and Alta Loma all tied for the second position at 3-2.

The game was not exactly an artistic success, an indication being that all of the contest's runs were unearned. The Bearcats and Royal Oak committed four errors each.

"I'm very happy to be 5-0," commented manager Dick Salomon. "But I really can't understand why we've been so sloppy in the field.

"My players know that they're better than they've been playing," continued the Bonita mentor, "And I know that they are capable of more . . . but we're winning, so I'm sure things will iron out."

The Bearcats trailed 2-1 after two innings, but jumped back to tie in the fourth, and pushed the winning tally across in the fifth.

Foulups mar trials at USGP

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Frenchman Patrick Depailler appeared to have set the fastest time in Friday's confused, mishap-marred opening sessions of time trials for Sunday's inaugural United States Grand Prix.

Depailler, driving a Tyrrell 007-Cosworth, screamed around the 2.02-mile Long Beach street course in 1 minute, 23.884 seconds, or 86.77 miles per hour, on the final lap of the day.

Continual problems in scoring, which erroneously gave quick times to three different drivers during the day, caused most observers to view skeptically the announced times. Depailler's time, however, was confirmed by Ferrari team officials.

Unofficially, the second fastest time was posted by James Hunt of England in a McLaren M23-Cosworth at 1:23.929, 86.67 m.p.h. Hunt had originally been credited with the fastest time in the first of the day's two sessions. However the times were later changed to put Austrian Niki Lauda on top.

Lauda was erroneously listed early as the quickest in the later practice period. But he was finally switched to fifth, behind his teammate Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland and Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa.

The day started ominously enough as a small apartment building along the circuit caught fire in the pre-dawn hours. A circus tent set up for a VIP party was also damaged in the fire. That pushed back the opening of the track by 90 minutes.

At least 24 incidents, spins or wall contact, were recorded during the two sessions. All were minor. Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil tore the nose off his Copersucar in the most serious incident of the day.

Depailler, a 32-year-old former Formula II champion, was one of the few drivers to avoid spinning during the day, although his driving style was described as "very aggressive."

Dodgers use errors to win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers capitalized on five errors by the New York Mets to pound out a 10-6 triumph in an exhibition game Friday.

Wayne Garrett was charged with three of the errors as the Mets suffered their third exhibition loss in as many days despite connecting for three home runs.

Felix Millan, Dave Kingman and Benny Ayala homered for the Mets, while Steve Garvey and Ted Sizemore hit home runs for the Dodgers, who put together an 11-hit attck against five New York pitchers.

Tommy John, making his first start for the Dodgers since July 17, 1974, gave up four runs on six hits and three walks in the four innings he worked Friday.

Cleveland tops Angels

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Alan Ashby drove in three runs with a home run and single Saturday as the Cleveland Indians used 13 hits to hammer the California Angels 6-3.

Ashby capped the Cleveland scoring with a two-run shot off Dick Lange in the fifth inning after the Indians had pecked away for single runs in each of the first four innings.

The Angels scored all of their runs in the ninth off Jackie Brown, the last of three Cleveland pitchers. Ron Jackson homered, Ed Herrmann doubled and, following a walk to Billy Smith, Paul Dade and Ed Kurpiel delivered run-scoring singles.

Buddy Bell had three singles and John Lowenstein two for Cleveland as Tom Buskey, Jim Kern and Steve Kline collaborated to limit the Angels to just four hits over the first seven innings.

California, suffering its first Cactus League loss after two wins in Arizona, finished with 10 hits.

Chino blanks Highlanders

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

The Chino High Cowboys and the Upland Highlanders faced each other in the first San Antonio League baseball contest at night this season, at Chino's baseball field Friday.

Chino's Barry Higgins provided the power with a strong pitching performance, as well as two hits and three RBI.

The Cowboys lassoed the Highlanders 9-0, and thereby evened their record in SAL to 2-2. Upland's mark fell to 2-2.

Higgins, a red-headed righthander, allowed but two hits in his 5 1/3 innings of work. The first hit off Higgins came in the first inning, when Greg Straley bounced one by the left side of the infield.

With one out in the fifth frame, an error on third baseman Gene St. Esteben enabled Straley to reach first base. After a walk to Greg Niederlauder, designated hitter Brad Self singled off Higgins' leg to load the sacks.

Chino coach Dallas Flisher then brought in Tom Derryberry to pitch. Derryberry picked up a strike out and a pop out to end the Highlander's rally.

Chino took advantage of seven Upland miscues. In the second inning, Joe Pickens received a walk from Upland starter Wade Lichti. Pickens moved on to second with a stolen base. Then when Lichti attempted to pick-off Pickens, he tossed the ball by second sacker Bob Stidd. Center fielder Jeff Sarratt then misplayed the same ball which allowed Pickens to score.

In the third inning, Paul Iverson walked and stole second. He went to third on an error and scored on a double by Rick Riedel.

The Cowboys added three more runs in the fourth. St. Esteben and Pat Kryziak each singled and moved up a base on a throwing error by Upland relief pitcher Eric Stentz. The runners both rode home on a ringing double by Higgins. Later in the inning Mary Edens drove home another Chino run.

Four more tallies in the fifth inning really put the icing on the cake for the Cowboys. With the bases loaded, Higgins singled home the Cowboys' sixth run. A walk to Riedel pushed across yet another tally, while a Steve Jackson safety completed the Chino run production.

"Higgins did a real fine job," said skipper Flisher. "This was his first start of the year. He is a low ball pitcher and fortunately we had an umpire that called low strikes."

Saints edge Walnut

San Dimas, Alta Loma and Ontario all posted Hacienda League victories Friday, while American Christian's Greg Hammond fired a no-hitter in a Christian League encounter.

San Dimas edged Hacienda foe Walnut 1-0, Alta Loma blanked Sierra Vista 6-0, Ontario rallied past Gladstone 9-7 and American bested Victor Valley Christian 7-2.

Curt Burkhart fired a four-hitter as he outdueled Walnut's Bob Cordova. The only run in the game came in the fifth, as Greg Sayegh reached second on a Walnut error, moved to third on a fly out and scored on a wild pitch. Sevegh had two of the four S.D. safeties, while Dave Olivas had two hits for Walnut.

Alta Loma's Charlie Balber fired a two-hitter as the Braves eased past Sierra Vista. Balber fanned eight and walked only three and did not allow a hit until the sixth inning.

Anthony Vasquez led the Braves offense with a triple and a single.

Ontario scored five times in the seventh inning to down Gladstone. Key hit in the inning was a two-run, inside-the-park homer by Rick Franco. Jesse Koopman, with relief help from Ron Penigar, picked up the mound win.

American hurler Hammond held Victor Valley hitless, as he fanned 14. V.V. took advantage of nine walks to score two runs, but the Minutemen managed to take a 7-1 lead in the game after two innings and Hammond had no trouble from there.

The win boosts American's league mark to 3-0. The Minutemen are now 6-1 overall.

Over in the Hacienda League, Walnut is now 3-2 in league tilts, San Dimas 2-3, Alta Loma 3-2 and Ontario 2-3.

Kings edged

VANCOUVER (AP) — The Vancouver Canucks moved into first place in the Conn Smythe Division Friday night when they defeated the Los Angeles Kings 4-3 in a National Hockey League game.

The Canucks, who led 3-0 in the second period, had to rely on the solid netminding of rookie Curt Ridley to hold off a late charge by the Kings.

It was the first time the Canucks have occupied first place this season. They have only four games remaining on their regular season schedule, while the Chicago Black Hawks, who trail the Canucks by one point, have five games left.

Bobby Lalonde, Chris Oddleifson, Garry Monahan and Mike Walton each scored for Vancouver, while Mike Corrigan, Mike Murphy and Marcel Dionne—all members of the same line—scored the for Kings, who remained in third place in the James Norris Division, one point back of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Saints edge Walnut

San Dimas, Alta Loma and Ontario all posted Hacienda League victories Friday, while American Christian's Greg Hammond fired a no-hitter in a Christian League encounter.

San Dimas edged Hacienda foe Walnut 1-0, Alta Loma blanked Sierra Vista 6-0, Ontario rallied past Gladstone 9-7 and American bested Victor Valley Christian 7-2.

Curt Burkhart fired a four-hitter as he outdueled Walnut's Bob Cordova. The only run in the game came in the fifth, as Greg Sayegh reached second on a Walnut error, moved to third on a fly out and scored on a wild pitch. Sevegh had two of the four S.D. safeties, while Dave Olivas had two hits for Walnut.

Alta Loma's Charlie Balber fired a two-hitter as the Braves eased past Sierra Vista. Balber fanned eight and walked only three and did not allow a hit until the sixth inning.

Anthony Vasquez led the Braves offense with a triple and a single.

Ontario scored five times in the seventh inning to down Gladstone. Key hit in the inning was a two-run, inside-the-park homer by Rick Franco. Jesse Koopman, with relief help from Ron Penigar, picked up the mound win.

American hurler Hammond held Victor Valley hitless, as he fanned 14. V.V. took advantage of nine walks to score two runs, but the Minutemen managed to take a 7-1 lead in the game after two innings and Hammond had no trouble from there.

The win boosts American's league mark to 3-0. The Minutemen are now 6-1 overall.

Over in the Hacienda League, Walnut is now 3-2 in league tilts, San Dimas 2-3, Alta Loma 3-2 and Ontario 2-3.

Bonita girls make playoffs

The Bonita High girls' basketball team defeated Walnut, 40-33, at Walnut to clinch a tie for the Hacienda League title Wednesday. Bonita and Alta Loma each finished with a 6-1 league record.

Bonita will open CIF playoff competition Wednesday.

Linda Christiansen and Robin Hayden each scored 10 points for Bonita against Walnut. Marsha Huss had 14 rebounds. Marsha averaged 11 rebounds a game over the 13-3 season.

Natza averaged 11 points a game to lead the team in scoring. Bonita's jayvee team had its best season ever with a 10-2 overall record and a 4-2 league mark good for third place.

D. Pierce is eligible

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran jockey Donald Pierce won a Superior Court order Friday which will make him eligible to ride in the Santa Anita Derby on Sunday.

Judge Norman Dowds ordered the California Horse Racing Board and the stewards at Santa Anita, who had suspended Pierce, to stay their decision pending a court hearing on April 8.

Pierce is expected to regain his mount on June's Blazer for the $150,000 derby. After the suspension, Bill Shoemaker was given the ride.

That could leave Shoemaker, the record holder for riding victories, without a mount. His agent, Harry Silbert, said Shoemaker had turned down another ride in order to handle June's Blazer.

The Santa Anita Derby will be a determining factor in which of the 3-year-olds from the West travel to Churchill Downs for the Kentucky Derby.

A rider since 1958, Pierce was suspended after the stewards ruled that his mount Ga Hai had interfered in last Sunday's San Luis Rey Stakes.

Cavs edge Vikings

Ron Candelaria's seventh-inning inside-the-park homer led Montclair to a 6-5 come-from-behind victory over Garey High Friday afternoon. The win gives the Cavaliers a 3-1 league record and drops Garey's mark to 2-2.

With the score tied at 5-5, Candelaria stroked a 3-2 pitch over the leftfielders head for the home run as the ball rolled to the outfield fence.

"We were happy to get the victory," said Montclair's Tom McFadden. Candelaria hit the homer to win the ballgame and he's steady at short as anybody.

"We played well most of the game except our defense was shoddy in the clutch. But I was pleased with the way we battled back from two runs down and with the way we hit the ball."

Garey had jumped out in front with two runs in the second inning. Both runs were tainted as one run was set up on a couple bloop hits and the second run resulted from a wild throw from the Cavaliers third baseman.

But Montclair bounced back and began to hit Garey's starting pitcher Cregg Handy. The big blows of the five-run outburst were back-to-back inside - the - park homers by pitcher Don Pierce and first baseman Ed Salazar. Pierce's home run came with two Cavalier runners on base.

The two homers put Montclair ahead 5-2 but the Cavs couldn't stand prosperity as their defense fell apart in the fifth inning.

Four errors by Montclair allowed Garey to tie the score at 5-5. Garey scored all three runs without the aid of a base hit.

Chris Davis began the inning as he was hit by a Pierce fastball. An error and groundout allowed Davis to score and Pierre Hill's grounder to first which was booted resulted in the second run of the inning. Hill advanced to third when the rightfielder overthrew first after retrieving the ball. Hill scored when Elton Keyes grounder was thrown away by shortstop Candelaria.

Pierce should have had a shutout but the Cavalier defense kept him in trouble most of the afternoon. Pierce, however, kept Garey from adding more runs to its total as he came up with a big out-pitch time and again.

McFadden noted, "You can't say enough about Don Pierce. He's doing it all including a big three-run homer today.

"It was good effort as you have to be lucky to win in this league. Garey doesn't quit. They have a scrappy battling ballclub."

Spartans earn first SAL win

By SEAN SULLIVAN
PB Correspondent

Junior righthander Rich Bustos tossed a three-hitter Friday afternoon to pace the Spartans to their first SAL victory over Ganesha on the Spartan diamond. The hosts edged the Giants 3-2.

"I was really happy with Richard," offered veteran skipper Matt Kolodge, "he worked his way out of some tough situations."

One of those situations Kolodge referred to came early in the game. With Giants at first and third and one out, Bustos got first baseman Danny Houck to hit a fly to rightfield where Ken Normington was able to make the catch and gun down centerfielder Wayne Smith attempting to score on the play to stifle the Ganesha scoring in the inning.

Although seven hitters strolled to the plate in the fourth for the visitors, they were only able to muster one run, to temporarily even things up at one apiece.

The Spartans got on the scoreboard in the second inning when centerfielder Mark Schlesinger cracked a double to left-centerfield and then scored on a pair of Giant errors. The first miscue came as Rick Gonzales — following Schlesinger — hit a grounder to shortstop Ruben Raya. The ball got by Raya and centerfielder Smith who was backing up on the play for the only Giant errors of the contest and the first Spartan run.

The hosts led off their half of the fourth with a couple of hits by Normington and designated hitter Tony Cimino. Gonzales came to the plate with one out and singled in Normington to put the Spartans back on top.

Their final tally came as Schlesinger (two for three in the game) singled to rightfield, took second on a fielder's choice, stole third and scored on a single by catcher Pete Fox.

After walking Smith to lead-off the seventh frame, Bustos was pulled from the game in favor of senior Todd Bell. Smith scored as second baseman Jeff Seaman singled to left and the ball got by leftfielder Ruben Lopez enabling Smith to cross homeplate for the final point of the contest.

Bustos allowed only three hits and struck out seven as his counterpart, righthander Joe Madrigal, gave up seven hits and fanned two Spartan hitters. The Spartan hurler improved his league record to 1-1 (3-2 overall).

PAL boxer decisioned

MIAMI, Fla. — Bruce Henderson of the Pomona Athletic League lost out on his bid for a National Golden Gloves title Friday night, as Clinton Jackson of Knoxville, Tenn. scored a unanimous decision over the local boxer in a 147-pound bout.

Jackson is a three-time national champion.

The only other California boxer in the competition, Paz Mena of Los Angeles, also lost Friday.

Mountie women win

A come-from-behind victory in the mile-relay enabled Mt. San Antonio College's women's track team to win a four-way meet Friday at MSAC.

The home team compiled 43 points to Pasadena City College's second-place total of 41, while santa Barbara City had 30, and Glendale had 20.

MSAC and Pasadena were tied at 35-35 with only two events — the mile relay and discus — still to go.

The Pasadena runners seemed to have the relay event well in hand with a 220-yard lead after the first two legs, but MSAC's Jeannette Steward overcame that distance and moved 50 yards in front herself on the third leg. Anchor runner Robin Dunbar maintained the lead to give MSAC first place with a winning time of 4:29.6.

Allison Lowder's second-place in the discus clinched the Mountie women's first triumph in two meets this season — their first track campaign in several years.

Leos travel to Whittier for two; Stags host 'Hens

La Verne College plays its most important games of the season today at Whittier.

The Leos, 2-1 in the SCIAC and 7-12 overall, will send Jim Vallone (2-5) and Joe McLaughline (2-0) against the league-leading Poets (8-1) in a doubleheader starting at noon.

Whittier has hardly used anyone other than Phil Roddy and lefthander Tyrone Bell except in extreme emergency. Roddy, who will pitch the first game is likely to reappear in the second if relief is needed.

Roddy sported a neat 1.20 earned run average before suffering his first conference loss to Claremont-Mudd Tuesday. The Stags really teed off on the Poets' ace.

He lasted less than four innings and was charged with six runs on seven hits and five walks. Bell is consistently wild. The fireballing lefty averages a walk and a strikeout per inning.

Since Whittier won two of three from C-M, the Leopards HAVE to win at least two of three from the Poets. Otherwise their chances of even getting into the NAIA district playoffs are jeopardized.

Claremont-Mudd (4-2) is the defending league champion and the Leos face the Stags two weeks from today. At the Leopards' current pace (seven wins in 19 games), their overall record might not be good enough to get them into the playoffs.

"The conference race is tough," said coach Ben Hines. "I'm concentrating on Whittier now, but we're also in a dogfight with Claremont-Mudd."

One thing that makes the La Verne outlook much brighter is the good work done by Paul McGuire and Fernie Tarin the past week.

McGuire pitched well in a losing effort (4-3) to the University of Arizona last week. The bespectacled righthander came back Wednesday to hurl the Leos to a 2-1, five-hit victory over Azusa Pacific.

Tarin, a transfer from MSAC, had been playing with La Verne's jayvees because of control problems. The tall (6-3) righthander relieved McLaughlin and pitched 3 1/3 innings of strong relief against Arizona to gain credit for the 14-6 win.

Tarin got his first start Wednesday against APC and lost, 2-1, although he, too, pitched a five-hitter.

While La Verne is at Whittier, Claremont-Mudd hosts Pomona-Pitzer for two games. The Stags are 8-7 overall and 4-2 in conference play. The Sagehens are 4-11 and 3-6.

C-M coach Bill Arce will start ace Joe Maiberger (6-1) and either Bob Phee (0-1) or Norm Richards (2-4). Mike Riskas will start Ken Creager (3-3) in one game and either Nick Dialynas, Jim Busterud, Tony Munoz or Todd Steckler in the second.

"The Pomona series should be a very good series," said Arce. "They have an improved ball club."

"We have a solid player at every position," Riskas agreed. "But we haven't had consistent pitching. We're now going into the toughest part of our schedule, Claremont this week and next Tuesday and then La Verne."

La Verne slates ceremonies

The La Verne Little League will hold its opening day ceremonies on Saturday, April 3, at 10:30 a.m. at La Pelota Park.

All teams, managers, coaches, team mothers and sponsors will be introduced. The ceremonies will begin with the Pledge of Allegiance followed by an inspirational message from the Rev. Michael Brooks, pastor of Holy Name of Mary Church. Mayor Mike Morales will throw out the ball.

The league's Senior Division and Senior Minor Division teams along with the league will be hosting a Family Fun Day Carnival at the field.

There will be game booths, sack races plus food booths.

Telly's Pop heads field in S.A. Derby

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Telly's Pop, the gelding owned by actor Telly Savalas and motion picture producer Howard W. Koch, heads a field of nine 3-year-olds entered Friday for Sunday's $150,000 Santa Anita Derby.

Telly's Pop, purchased by Koch as a yearling for $6,000 with Savalas buying a half interest for $3,000 when Walter Matthau turned down the offer, already has earned $343,870.

Now he points to the big money at Santa Anita this weekend, the Hollywood Derby on April 17 and then the Triple Crown of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Already the winner of the California Derby at Golden Gate Fields in Northern California, Telly's Pop, with Francisco Mena riding, is an early 75-choice at Santa Anita.

In post position order, the entries are Double Discount, An Act, Life's Hope, Telly's Pop, Samburu, McKenzie Bridge, Pindoro, Classy Surgeon and June's Blazer.

Grandaries, expected in the field, wasn't entered because of a bruised hock.

All the 3-year-olds will carry 120 pounds over 1⅛ miles compared with 126 over 1¼ miles in the Kentucky Derby.

With the $150,000 guaranteed purse money, this 39th running of the Santa Anita Derby will be its richest in history. There will be $90,000 for the winner, $24,000 for second, $18,000 for third, $12,000 for fourth and $6,000 for fifth.

Telly's Pop has won four races grossing $100,000 or more—the Del Mar Futurity, the Norfolk Stakes during the Oak Tree meeting at Santa Anita, the California Juvenile at Bay Meadows and the California Derby.

An Act, Life's Hope, and June's Blazer are the only other stakes winners in the field.

An Act, with Laffit Pincay riding, could make it to Kentucky with a creditable showing here.

June's Blazer also is considered a possibility to go East for the big 3-year-old races.

An Act won the 1 1-16 mile Santa Catalina Stakes and June's Blazer captured the Bradbury Stakes at the 1⅛-mile distance. Life's Hope won the Las Cienegas in a six-furlong sprint.

Angel Cordero Jr., will ride Life's Hope, with Donald Pierce aboard June's Blazer.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Sunday March 28, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't make things more difficult than they need be. Today's frustrations willl be mostly of your own doing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be careful if talking with friends today about another who is not present. What's said will be traced back to its source.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try not to be too self-seeking in pursuing your aims today. It will not sit well with others. Keep your image in mind.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There's a possibility today that you could read more into what others say than is intended. Your feelings could be hurt needlessly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) One who loves you could be rather upset today, if you're overly attentive to someone else, in their presence.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) To placate another today you might agree to something which you'll later regret. Think carefully when striking bargains.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll not have much success today in getting others to perform tasks for you that YOU should be doing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In social situations today just be the real you. Affectations or airs will make others feel very uneasy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're having guests over today, be sure the friends you invite are compatible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't do things for others today in hopes you may get something in return. They're not likely to reciprocate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be a little too loose with your resources today for your own good. Protect what you have.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you let yourself become sidetracked too easily, you'll not accomplish what you start out to do today. Be purposeful.

Your Birthday March 28

Bonds will be further strengthened this coming year with one you're already very fond of. Each party will derive greater benefits from the relationship.

Judge bans movie, calls it 'grossly sickening'

SANTA ANA (AP) — A permanent injunction has been issued banning the screening in Orange County of the movie, "Snuff," by a Municipal Court judge who branded the film "grossly sickening."

Judge Paul Mast issued the order this week, responding to a request from county officials who objected to the violence portrayed in the movie, which included a sequence purportedly showing a woman being cut into pieces while still alive.

"I don't know if it was real or not. You'd need a doctor to determine that. But it looked real, and it served no purpose," said Mast, whose injunction order was accepted by the Mann Theaters chain.

Screening of the movie sparked a protest from various feminist groups who formed a coalition under the name Women Against Violence Against Women.

Ex-general as mayor

Hup-two-three-four for Oceanside now

OCEANSIDE (AP) — The exgeneral who swept loiterers out of City Halls says his transition to civilian leadership is proceeding smoothly.

A pocket of resistance here and there but so far no movement to repulse him.

In office for only two weeks, Mayor Paul Graham said in an interview that he is bringing order out of chaos.

"The situation was intolerable," he said of City Hall before he put up off-limits signs last week to visitors without specific business.

"There were groups of citizens just milling around City Hall. Few had any business here. I was talking on my telephone at one point, and one person came into my office and started carrying on conversation with me."

He spotted a newspaper reporter using Councilman Carl Pruitt's telephone.

Nobody, press or public, has been allowed inside City Hall except by appointment or some prior announcement, a move Graham says will "give us time to clear our desks, collect our thoughts and converse with them in a more intelligent manner."

The 53-year-old Graham was a brigadier general in the Marine Corps and commandant of neighboring Camp Pendleton until last November. His election as mayor March 2 was a surprise to many in Oceanside, a city of 50,000 civilians, and even Graham says "what surprised me was the margin of victory."

He carried 41 of the city's 43 precincts, defeating City Councilman William Bell by 5,412 votes to 3,658 and two other candidates by a margin of 4,000 votes.

He promptly told the Army Corps of Engineers to solve the sand erosion problems at Oceanside Harbor on which it has worked for seven years.

He led the City Council in putting a moratorium on all new businesses until loopholes are closed in the ordinance that regulates bars and massage parlors.

He told the city attorney to draft an ordinance curtailing the drinking of alcoholic beverages in public.

He named a crime abatement committee, put himself on the county-wide Comprehensive Planning Organization "to insure Oceanside gets its fair share of federal funds" and announced moves to bring in business not considered "honky tonk" and catering to servicemen's paychecks.

He told the council that no interference will be tolerated with the work of City Manager Dan Stone.

The council, with one exception, has refrained from any criticism of Graham's gusto and several members have praised him. But Councilman Lucy Chavez vowed that "if he's going to run this city as a military establishment, it's going to be over my dead body." She added in an interview that "we're not privates first class" on the council.

"I'm a doer," said Graham.

"I attack my job just like I would any other one. I get to work at 8 a.m. and leave at 6 p.m.—or whatever it takes."

The mayor's job pays only $331 monthly and technically is part-time.

Ex-Beatle attracts a mob

INGLEWOOD (AP) — A Beatle by any other name still draws a mob.

In fact, it took only 3½ hours Thursday to sell 36,000 seats for the forthcoming concerts by Wings, led by former Beatle Paul McCartney, making his first U.S. appearance since 1966.

Even though the concerts April 19 and 20 had not been formally announced, Wings fans began forming lines Tuesday at the Forum box office to buy tickets.

At one point, said police, a line of 3,000 to 3,500 persons stretched for nearly a mile.

Citywide ticket agencies sold 2,000 tickets in nine minutes, said a concert spokesman.

It is the first U.S. tour for Wings, which also includes McCartney's wife, Linda.

Easter bunny prices hold

CHICAGO (AP) — Some good news for the Easter bunny: "There will be no price increase this year."

Jack Zachary, whose confections plant will produce one million chocolate Easter bunnies this year, said prices will be the same as last year.

"There will be no price increase this year because of level chocolate costs and the decline in sugar prices after the sharp increase late in 1974," said Zachary.

Urn lost on way to Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service has lost the cremated remains of a man sent through the mail for burial at Arlington National Cemetery, postal officials say.

Bertram E. Williams, a retired naval officer, died Jan. 10 at St. Petersburg, Fla. Following the terms of his will, Williams' family had his body cremated and asked that the ashes be shipped to Arlington National Cemetery near Washington for burial.

Murray Watts, stepson of the dead man, said the crematorium forwarded the ashes in an urn placed in a mailing package.

But Raymond J. Costanzo, superintendent of Arlington National Cemetery, said Thursday that the box, about six-by-eight inches, was damaged when it arrived at the cemetery and the urn was not in it.

"The family kept calling us and asking for the date of interment. We kept saying that we couldn't schedule it until we received the remains," Costanzo said.

Costanzo said the cemetery frequently receives urns through the mail containing cremated remains. "In almost 30 years this is the first one ever lost," he said.

Watts said, "We went to the post office and they started a search for it. We kept waiting and waiting but they never found it." St. Petersburg postmaster Harry W. Scott said, "We spent many, many hours trying to locate it and made many telephone calls." But to no avail.

Watts, a St. Petersburg real estate agent, said the family will receive $15 for insurance on the parcel, which was neither registered nor certified.

"This was an absolutely traumatic shock for my mother, who is 83. I don't think she will ever recover from it," said Watts.

Disclosure of the lost urn comes amid rising concern over damage to parcels sent through the mail.

A congressman who has studied the Postal Service's new billion-dollar system for handling parcels said Thursday that it constitutes "a management blunder of the first magnitude."

Chairman Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., of the House postal facilities subcommittee told postal officials that the system "will cost the American public millions of dollars while lowering the quality of mail service."

Postal officials disagreed, saying the agency will solve its problem of parcel damage caused by the new sorting machines.

"The magnitude of the damage problem is not large percentage-wise, and certainly it is a temporary problem which can be corrected, but we recognize that the results to date are unacceptable," said Senior Asst. Postmaster Gen. E.V. Dorsey.

Club relents, finally opens door to gals

LOS ANGELES(AP)— After 40 years, the all-male Department of Water and Power Speakers Club finally will open its doors to the opposite sex.

In voting 105-50 to change club policy, members recently reversed a January decision to continue a ban on admitting women.

That 122-53 vote had brought furious protest from the Board of Water and Power Commissioners and the city Commission on the Status of Women.

At the time, Carl Tamaki, acting general manager of the DWP, warned the club it could no longer serve as the department's official speakers organization unless it opened its ranks to women.

Speakers Club vice president John Novobilski attributed the club's change of heart to " our people understandng the issues much better" and "change in the times."

Pregnancy with pay: It's now in the courts

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A man who walks intc a bar, picks a fight and gets hurt generally receives sick pay for the time he is out of work. So does the man who attempts suicide but misses.

A woman who can't work due to pregnancy usually does not. She traditionally takes an unpaid leave of absence.

Is this sex discrimination? Is pregnancy a sickness, an accident? What about the woman who never intends to return to her job after her baby is born? Would paying her salary while she is on pregnancy leave constitute a form of severance pay?

And what's to be done with the woman who can't work after the second month of pregnancy because of medical complications? Is she entitled to sick pay? If so, what would this do to the cost of sick pay insurance for the employer and his employes?

Can women's exclusion be called unequal really since pregnancy is a condition unique to women?

These and similar questions are now before the U.S. Supreme Court as well as lower federal and state courts across the land. Some charge that excluding pregnancy from sick pay coverage violates state laws guaranteeing human rights and fair employment; some say there's a violation of the Constitution's Fourteenth Amendment (guaranteeing equal treatment), or of Title VII (dealing with sex discrimination) of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The two cases before the Supreme Court -- General Electric versus Martha Gilbert and Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. versus Sandra Wetzel — were argued Jan. 19-20. Both are class action suits in which violations of Title VII are alleged.

Martha Gilbert, a factory worker in GE's Salem, Va., plant, became pregnant in 1970 and was required to take a mandatory, unpaid leave of absence.

She and her union, the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, filed a grievance, asking for sick pay for Mrs. Gilbert while she was out. She already had received company hospital insurance coverage. (GE pays 60 per cent of an employe's salary for up to 26 weeks when he or she is sick or has had an accident, but pregnancy is excluded.)

"They laughed at us at first," claims Bob Delano, vice president of IUE Local 161. Three grivances and two court decisions later, nobody is laughing.

Mrs. Gilbert lost the grievances but won the court decisions and GE brought the issue before the Supreme Court.

The enormity of the decision has prompted a remarkably large number of friend-of-the-court briefs to be filed. They stack up predictably, with labor on one side and big business on the other.

A lot of money is at stake. GE produced an expert witness who testified that if pregnancy benefits were included, it would cost American industry an additional $1.3 billion a year in wages. The figure compares with an annual national payroll in goverment and industry of $906.6 billion, according to the Department of Commerce.

Lawyers on the other side charge that the $1.3 billion is an inflated figure.

Sandra Wetzel's battle with Liberty Mutual is similar to that of Mrs. Gilbert's. She was forced off her job due to pregnancy and sued in 1972 for the salary she lost. She also won her fight in two lower courts.

About 40 per cent of American companies pay some form of wage maintenance during the period a woman is disabled by pregnancy, says Linda Dorian, until this month a lawyer with the federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission. The companies include Ford, General Motors, Chrysler, Exxon, Shell, Gulf and U.S. Steel.

Gulf's John Hollan said his company put the policy into effect in 1972. Several years later, he said, "We are very much alone in this but we believe it's still a wave of the future."

Both sides say that if they lose they are prepared to go to Congress to seek legislation that will supersede the Supreme Court.

There are no all-inclusive figures to show just how widespread this issue has become.

Many courts and human rights commissions have adopted a wait and see attitude, withholding judgment until the Supreme Court comes up with an answer.

In those cases that have been decided, the women are winning the battle. A few courts, including several state supreme courts, have ruled against the women's contention that pregnancy should be treated like any other disability in terms of sick pay. But the majority have agreed with the women, who have won 20 cases before federal district courts, seven before the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and 10 before state supreme courts.

In the companies' corner, however, is a 1974 Supreme Court decision, Geduldig versus Aiello. In that case, the high court decided by a 6-3 margin that California did not discriminate against women in excluding pregnancy from a state sick pay insurance plan. The court said the California plan was established "in accordance with insurance concepts." One of the dissenting justices, William Douglas, has since retired from the bench.

The California case was fought under the equal treatment guarantee of the 14th Amendment. The cases now before the court are being fought under Title VII.

One of the companies' chief arguments is the uniqueness of pregnancy. They claim that since it is neither sickness nor accident, it should be treated separately. They argue that since men cannot become pregnant, women are not being treated unequally.

On the other hand, a hysterectomy is unique to women and a prostrate operation is unique to men and they are covered by sick pay.

The insurance concept is another argument.

"You insure against uncertainties, not planned events," says Thomas Hilbert, GE's lawyer. "That's been an insurance concept since Adam and Eve had their first baby. A man who insures himself against fire doesn't go out and burn his house down. And if he does, that's fraud."

One of the aspects that makes employers nervous is the amount of time a woman may be out. Although averages can be established, each case is unpredictable. There's always the chance of severe complications, disabling a woman for months.

Another worry on the employer's mind is that many women never intend to come back to work after the baby is born. GE claims that industry-wide, 50 per cent of the women who take maternity leaves never return to work. In GE plants, 40 per cent do not come back within six weeks of their babies' births, the company says.

Linda Dorian does not believe these figures give an accurate picture.

"GE forced these women off the job at six months," she says. "Those who needed money probably found other jobs. To presume 40 per cent dropped out of the labor force is erroneous. And their figures do not reflect how many came back after six weeks."

One of the early arguments was that pregnancy is a voluntary condition. But that argument is now being played down. The courts have been fairly unresponsive and the women had too many examples of voluntary conditions that were covered.

GE, for example, provides sick pay for cosmetic surgery. However, it doesn't pay the medical expenses and since cosmetic surgery is expensive, only a minute number of people ever ask for sick pay for this surgery.

"That's like comparing a peanut and an elephant," says Hilbert.

Most airlines — which have a somewhat unique problem — claim they must lay off stewardesses early in their pregnancy because of the safety factor involved.

Hilbert said that GE had no policy of requiring women to leave at the end of the sixth month, but that individual plants put in that requirement. The plants now have dropped that policy.

"Even if we lose (before the Supreme Court), we have won half the battle," says Delano. Women now work at GE as long as their doctors say it is all right.

A status report

The fighting of pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smog still pollutes some major American cities. Oil spills occasionally foul beaches. Coal operators continue to destroy the landscape by strip-mining for coal in some states. And chemical pollutants threaten health.

But six years after Richard M. Nixon signed the National Environmental Health Act and declared the '70s the decade for cleaning up the environment, there are many claims that progress has been made toward eliminating pollution.

In the process, pollution fighting has become a major American enterprise. The Environmental Protection Agency, for example, is the government's largest regulatory agency, with 9,000 employes, although it is only five years old. Most states and large cities run agencies similar to the EPA.

The production of pollution control equipment is a multibillion-dollar industry. The federal government estimates that $15.7-billion was spent last year — $5.7-billion by federal, state and local governments and $10 billion by industry. The outlay produced one million jobs, according to federal statistics.

Pollution control is one of the few industries not hurt by the recession, says Russell W. Peterson, chairman of the White House Council on Environmental Quality.

More than 50 groups dedicated to improving the environment have been organized since 1970, the Library of Congress reports, and dozens of lawsuits have been filed in behalf of the environment. Most demand compliance with a clause in the 1970 National Environmental Health Act that requires "environmental impact statements" for all federal activities significantly affecting the environment.

The National Wildlife Federation, the nation's largest conservation organization, annually assesses progress in seven major environmental areas: timber, water, minerals, air, wildlife, soil and open space.

Its recently issued report for 1975 concluded that air pollution decreased, but in the six other areas there was loss of quality, in part because of failures to comply with new federal regulations, or the failure of the federal government to enact necessary legislation.

A federal land use bill, for example, didn't get through Congress last year and President Ford vetoed a bill to regulate strip mining. Although the National Wildlife Federation noted

Are the nuclear pacemakers safe?

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The use of plutonium to keep the hearts of 500 Americans beating regularly is also generating controversy over the safety of the nuclear-powered pacemakers these people use.

The chief battleground is Minneapolis, headquarters of the world's principal manufacturer of nuclear pacemakers. That firm, Medtronic Inc., claims the devices are radioactively safe and a boon to people requiring a pacemaker with a power supply that lasts for years.

Nearby, at the University of Minnesota, Dr. Dean Abrahamson, a physicist and physician, is one of the most outspoken critics of nuclear pacemakers. He and others have asked the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to ban them. Dr. Abrahamson, who describes himself as an activist on environmental issues, argues that radiation might cause cancer in a person with a nuclear pacemaker, or the radioactive plutonium fuel might be released accidentally.

The NRC staff in Washington is preparing an enviromental impact statement on nuclear-powered pacemakers, weighing the claims of manufacturers and the experience of doctors against the concerns of Abrahamson and various enviromentalists.

Heat generated as part of the fuel's radioisotopic decay is converted into electricity — the electrical impulses delivered to heart muscles to control heart rhythm, prolonging the lives of people with damaged hearts.

More than 250,000 people throughout the world have had battery-powered pacemakers implanted since their introduction in 1960. The drawback with battery models is that when the batteries run down after six years or so, part of the device must be replaced surgically.

The nuclear models, designed to last at least 10 years, have been in use only since 1970.

James R. Mason, NRC medical specialist who headed a recent nuclear pacemaker study, says the NRC's final decision on the safety of nuclear pacemakers should be made this year. It could be challenged in the courts.

So far, about 1,500 nuclear pacemakers have been implanted — 500 of them in the United States. Medtronic has manufactured about 80 per cent of the units.

Dr. Chardack says he has heard of no power failures in the nuclear pacemakers. He said a report in 1975 on 1,000 implants showed two electronic malfunctions but no losses of power source.

Chardack said some new batteries are capable of driving pacemakers for 10 years. Still, he said, the nuclear device has a potential life span exceeding any battery pacemaker.

Bob Griffin, nuclear programs manager of Medtronic, says the lifespan of the nuclear unit allows a doctor to eliminate multiple pacemaker surgery for young patients with a long life expectancy.

But he noted that only a small percentage of pacemaker users can take full advantage of nuclear pacemakers because most heart patients are older and their life expectancies don't warrant the additional expense of a nuclear pacemaker. It costs about $5,000. The battery-powered units cost $1,200.

Dr. Abrahamson, now director of the University of Minnesota's School of Public Affairs, contends there has been insufficient study of the possibility of radioactive exposure. He says there is a possibility of cancer when tissues are exposed to radiation.

Griffin counters that a patient with a nuclear pacemaker receives less radiation than an average jet crew receives at high altitudes from cosmic rays.

Abrahamson says there is no evidence to support the assumption of a 10-year operational life for nuclear pacemakers. He claims that alternatives are available with that life span and without environmental hazards.

Griffin responds that the 10-year estimate is "conservative," and studies indicate that nuclear pacemakers may last "much longer."

Abrahamson fears plutonium could be released in cases of accidental burning deaths or cremation.

The Rock Olympics

They all must race in the nude

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — All the contestants were nude and the winner fell four feet down an incline to win a gold painted replica of "himself."

The "playing field" was the lobby of a savings and loan association.

From the comments of their "masters," it was hard to tell that the entrants in the "olympics" were pet rocks.

"Oh heavens, yes, I'm proud of Rolly," said Rollene Fletcher of Lynwood. Her 5¾-ounce red painted entry placed second in the heavyweight category. "I'm not real sure" what Rolly's winning time was, said Mrs. Fletcher, 40, "but he won real good."

It was Rolly who almost faced disqualification over the nude dress code. One of the three judges — who included local disc jockey Charlie Tuna, 31, and two bank officials — made Mrs. Fletcher take a piece of felt off Rolly's bottom.

"He was used as a paperweight before," Mrs. Fletcher admitted.

Two pet rocks were in fact disqualified when officials decided they weren't really rocks. One turned out to be a cement slab, the other "a substance of undetermined origin," a spokesman said.

"I was driving down the freeway on my way to work and thinking about Citizens' Savings, and I thought, hey — it just popped out."

Popping from the mind of Jill Jeffers, the savings and loan association's public relations coordinator, was the publicity gimmick which drew 50 entrants from four Southern California counties

Henderson, owned by Sean Murphy, 23, of Anaheim, slid down the course in one second flat to bag first place in the heavyweight class. He weighed 4½ ounces.

Henderson — as well as the first place winners in the lightweight and middleweight categories — walked off with a trophy adorned with a gold painted rock.

Second place winners like Mrs. Fletcher got rock record albums by the Rolling Stones group, and third place entrants received Rocky Road-flavored ice cream cones.

Maximium weight for contestants was eight ounces.

If there is a secret to success, it might be Henderson's conditioning.

"Henderson went through thorough training. He knows how to sit, stay, heel, play dead, all kinds of things," said Valeria Anderson, a friend of rock-owner Murphy.

But apparently there is a high price to pay for "families" of the rocks.

"Probably Sean's mother feels a lack of attention because he spends so much time with his rock," said Miss Anderson. "Sean doesn't go anywhere without his rock."

SPRING MADNESS — The silly season is back, and babies and adults watch a pet rock race in Long Beach. The track was in the lobby of a savings and loan association. Fifty contestants — each required to be a "nude" rock — were in the competition.

Pollution report . . .

progress in reducing air pollution, even the EPA said that few utilities and industries met the June 1 deadline last year for compliance with federal standards on emissions of smoke, dust, sulfur dioxide, carbon monoxide, smog and nitrogen dioxide over urban areas.

Nevertheless, the National Wildlife Federation concluded: "Despite this generally somber picture, there are some encouraging signs. Most significantly, perhaps, the polls still show undiminished public support for environmental goals."

Others point to these accomplishments:

—After a concerted federal, state and local effort, fish life is again thriving in Lake Erie, considered a "dying lake" a decade ago. And Lake County beaches near Chicago, closed by pollution in 1969, were reopened last summer.

—For the first time in 100 years, Atlantic salmon have returned to the Connecticut River.

—The waters of Pensacola's Escambia Bay in northwest Florida — the site of numerous fish kills in the early 1970s because of industrial pollution — are clearing. Shrimp and oysters are gradually coming back and the natural ecology is being restored.

—Hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide levels in the exhausts of 1976-model automobiles are 85 per cent less than in vehicles made before 1968, the EPA says.

—More than three-fourths of the 20,000 "major air pollution sources" in the nation are complying with pollution abatement plans, the EPA says, although many are behind schedule and there are some notable lems.

Despite the problems, Russell Train, the EPA's administrator, says: "We have definitely turned the corner on all the major pollution problems that faced us in 1970. But I'm not suggesting that we don't have a lot of problems ahead."

In an interview, Train said the environmental movement that started in the 1960s because of "justifiable outrage on the part of the public," has now largely been institutionalized.

"There's a lot less emotional excitement about the environment today, but perhaps an even deeper acceptance of the issue by the public. The environment has just taken its place among the nation's priorities and values today," Train said.

He has been running the EPA since 1973, when he took over from William D. Ruckelshaus, the agency's first administrator.

Charged with enforcing regulations on everything from air and water pollution to pesticides and noise, the EPA has been controversial from its inception. It has been buffeted with criticism from both environmentalists who say it knuckles under too often to industry pressure and from industry, which has accused the agency of overzealousness.

Within the administration, Train has differed with President Ford. Twice last year he urged the President to sign bills imposing enviromental controls on strip mining; Ford vetoed them.

"In all fairness," Train said, "I don't think the President has evidenced a strong environmental record on some of the issues that he's been confronted with, such as strip mining."

The energy crisis and the 1973 Arab oil boycott "obviously complicated" the job of enforcing environmental laws and regulations, Train added. "But I really don't think we need to rip off the environment or public health to achieve our national energy goals. In any long-range sense, we've got to do both jobs together."

Train said that despite his differences with Ford on some matters, he feels the EPA has "remained a strong force within the administration" and that public support for environmental programs "continues at a high level."

A recent public opinion survey seems to bear this out.

The Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N.J., last summer polled 1,222 persons, a cross-section of the American public, on their attitudes toward enviromental issues. The poll showed that despite the recession, high unemployment and rising fuel costs, those interviewed opposed cutting back enviromental control programs.

He noted that $120-billion a year is spent in America on health care and "70 to 90 per cent of these adverse health effects are related to pollution and other enviromental factors."

They're waiting for the end of the world

GRANNIS, Ark. (AP) — At about 8:30 p.m. last Sept 29, a dozen members of the Nance clan gathered for a family prayer meeting.

The night was calm and cool. The day's work had been hard. They did not, as they recall, approach the meeting with any unusual fervor.

Gene E. Nance, 35, expected to meet for no more than an hour.

John K. Nance, 39, says, "I didn't even want to meet."

Dyann Nance, 29, says, "Look, everybody was in a rush, we had been working, we were tired. We were planning on having a real quickie."

But at that meeting, they received from the mouth of their aunt, Viola Walker, a message that changed their lives. Like others they claim to have received, they thought this message was from God.

The message said the worldending Second Coming of Jesus Christ was at hand and they should remain in the house.

There in the plain, small, three-bedroom, one-bath, redbrick home of Gene and his wife, Dyann, they have remained. The meeting Gene thought might last an hour has lasted more than four months.

They have been cramped and crowded months. The house is shared by 28 people. The youngest is 6-month-old Jacob. The eldest is Viola, who turned 67 last Jan. 6, seven weeks after she spoke the message.

Anticipating the end of all things, obeying the message to stay, they drastically altered their lives:

—They quit going to work. The direct command of God to stay in the house overrode the Biblical injunction to be industrious. Now they are jobless.

—They quit paying bills. Worldly possessions are of no account in a world about to be consumed by fire. They have lost cars, trucks, and houses they were buying. They are behind in payments on Gene's house.

—They stopped sending their children to school. Of what value is an empirical education with the heavenly kingdom at hand? A county judge put six school-age children back into class, as required by law.

—One member lost custody of her 14-year-old daughter to an ex-husband for refusing to promise to put the child back into school. Who can promise something contingent on a future that will never be?

But not all of the burdens have been borne by those maintaining the vigil in the little house.

Others hereabout were troubled by fear, anxiety and uncertainty. It is an awesome prospect — this imminent confrontation with final and ultimate judgment at the hands of God in his wrath.

The postmaster, Bob Minor, a Mormon, said the claimed revelation shocked and intimidated some people.

The Rev. Leonard H. Brothers, 30, the town barber and the Baptist minister some call "Brother Brothers," has been called on to console tearful, confused people beseeching him for reassurance.

The town as a whole received a jolt that undusted many Bibles. Even the irreligious in Grannis have an uncommonly good acquaintance these days with Biblical statements about the end of all things. Bob Minor said it all adds up to a "beautiful" result.

"It has made people get out their Bibles and get back to God," he said.

An unusual event, but in a thoroughly usual place.

Grannis, population 170, is a wide spot in U.S. 71 in the steep hills of the Ouachita National Forest near the southwestern border of Arkansas.

THE NANCE CLAN — Family prayer brings together some of the Nance clan in the house in Grannis, Ark., where the 28-member group awaits the world-ending second coming of Christ. It was at a prayer meeting last September that from the mouth of Viola, second from right, they received the message and the order to stay in the house — a message they believe was from God, and which they have obeyed.

The Nance family waits . . .

and tawny in winter, have been carved from deep, silent forests blanketing the slopes. At dawn, sunlight on icy grasses makes a frosty field twinkle like a bed of diamonds.

The big industries are logging and poultry. Heavily laden timber trucks thunder down the forest-framed blacktop. Feathers fly like dirty snow from trailers stacked with chicken cages.

Lane Poultry Co., where chickens are slaughtered for market, provided the jobs for most of the men of the vigil. They were in truck repair, parts, and welding.

Their fellow workers at Lane offer mixed views about what kind of people the vigil participants were, everything from "great" to "weird."

Dwight Billing, 20: "Daniel Fenwick was a pest. He'd go around saying we'd go to hell for this and that — cussing, drinking, just about anything."

Stan George, 50: "Dang smart people, no dumbbunnies."

They remember that Daniel tore down a centerfold nude that had been put on display by workers in the metal, barn-like shop at Lane. They put it up again and threatened him. It's still there.

One day, other workers saw three Nances who were welders gazing through their welding masks at the sun and asking themselves: "How could anyone not believe there was a God?"

Tough-talking Stan George dubs the purported revelation "baloney."

Mose Geislar, 50, a bespectacled and wizened farmer, sipped coffee in Lou's Cafe, tugged a green baseball cap more snugly onto his head, and said:

"I had a brother-in-law. He did something like that, years ago. But he had a tiller and I offered to buy it if the price was right. He said okay — he wouldn't need a tiller with the world coming to an end. He's dead now. I wore that tiller out."

The Nances say the message of Sept. 29 was not the first they have received. As 42-yearold Janet Fenwick put it, the message "has always been true and sure."

The family is especially pleased with John's gift of prophetic utterance. He fidgets at talk about it.

"I'm not sure we ought to be talking about ourselves," John says. "The real message of Jesus' coming is getting lost in all this."

The Nance clan is good-humored, they laugh a lot. The vigil interrupted John's series of dental appointments, leaving him without front teeth on one side of his grin. When he laughs, he raises his hand selfconsciously to cover the gap, and it looks as though he thinks a laugh is something that might fall out of his mouth and into his hand. That brings another wave of laughs.

As hunger comes on, they bake biscuits, leavened, and serve them hot with melting butter and glasses of tea. Feeding the 20-plus daily is a joint effort.

Over coffee and cigarettes, they talk about their religion as familiarly as others discuss cars or detergents. A well-thumbed King James Version of the Bible is handy and often open for reference.

The usual procedure in their family prayer meetings is to hold hands, form a circle in the kitchen around the worn table and the faded braid rug. Most eyes are closed in prayer.

Some sway, rocking gently. "Amazing Grace" wafts up on strong but gentle voices.

Softly, their prayers begin. Speaking simultaneously and swiftly, the words stream into a pool of low noise bubbling within the circle. "Jesus, Jesus, Jesus. Love you Jesus, holy Jesus, praise your name. Oh, Jesus, Sweet Jesus. Oh, Jesus, Jesus, Jesus."

Since the vigil began, there have been a few colds and sniffles in the group, but no serious illness.

They sleep on beds, couches, mats they spread on the floor. They have forsaken sexual activity. "The Lord is taking care of us," Gene said.

Clothes have been hung from wires strung from the walls of two rooms. There was no room for them in the closets.

Not everyone in the Nance family is participating in the vigil. One of Viola's sons isn't. Her husband isn't, and he visits periodically to encourage her to come home with him, vigil members said.

There are no icons, no long robes, no Jesus sandals, no crucifixes, no pictures of Jesus.

John leaves the house occasionally. He got permission by a "message" to tend to the water pump when it froze. In the past, the frequency of Nance family prayer meetings was determined by the will of the group. If somebody thought they ought to have one, they did — as few as two a week, as many as seven.

The "messages" come during prayer. But how do they come?

Is there a voice?

John: "No, it's just one of us saying the words the Spirit moves us to say."

Does your mind know what the words will be before you speak?

John: "Well, maybe sometimes just a brief glimpse. But a lot of times, no — I hear it when everybody else hears it."

How do you know it's a message from God and not something else?

John: "Everybody feels it in his heart."

What do you feel when you utter a prophetic statement?

John: "Well, it's not like it takes control of you and you go crazy. You're not free to run and jump through the house. We've heard about the gifts being used elsewhere, where people flop around and foam at the mouth and everything. A lot has been misused and abused. We don't do that."

How come you have the gifts — what's special about you?

John: "Look at the business world: Some people prosper there more than others do, and some prosper more in the spiritual world."

They had been told for some time that He would be coming soon. But then something made "soon" imminent.

Viola: "I forget just what the word was, but it was 'soon to come' or 'soon to appear,' or some such statement indicating very soon. That was clear."

For some there was fear, awesome fear. For a long time, the "message" was not to talk about it to outsiders, but it is alright to talk about it now. "He said so," said Gene.

They didn't understand v y the change at first. "But now we understand," John says, "that this has been the Lord's way of advertising his coming. Our staying here and keeping to ourselves created the curiosity and concern ... If we had gone to the store and done the usual things, nobody would have noticed."

Viola: We've spoken to Him about it every day. We are more sure today than we were the first week."

They have not been given a specific date, only that it would be soon. They expect it at any moment. And if the Lord told them that He had accomplished what he wanted and sent them back to their daily lives as before, they are not sure they could do it.

Most people in Grannis believe the Nances are sincere. "Wrong, but sincere," one said.

They still get their mail, and they've counted hundreds of letters from all over the world since the vigil began. One man wanted to come and join them, and they told him not to. One letter began, "You poor devilpossessed fools." Another came from a prison inmate who claimed to be Jesus.

"There are a lot of nuts out there," Gene says.

John Tyler

John Tyler, the 10th president, was the first to have been born a citizen of the United States. Born March 29, 1790, in Charles City County, Va., Tyler was successively a member of the Virginia House of Delegates (1811), Congress (1816-21), the Virginia Legislature (1823-25), governor of Virginia (1825-26) and U.S. senator (1827-36). In 1840 he was elected U.S. vice president and succeeded to the presidency on the death of William Henry Harrison in 1841.

The electric battery in a car makes use of the fact that chemical action between two different metals can cause a flow of electrons. When electrons move, electricity is produced.

A car battery is a rubber box with smaller acid-filled boxes, or cells, inside it. Each cell in the battery is made of two kinds of lead plates.

The chemical action between the acid and the lead plates causes certain chemical changes to take place which produce electrons and cause them to move from one plate to the other, producing electricity.

Some car batteries have three electric cells. And some have six cells.

The cells are connected together to provide a more powerful electric current.

The electricity is "stored" in the battery until the car's ignition is turned on. Then the electricity streams out of the battery along a wire "path" to make the starter start, the spark plugs spark, and goes to work in other places in the car.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1135 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

More than gambling to Vegas' glitter... Story on page 4

Shelby Lyman on chess

Here come the youngsters

The age of chess has come. Hordes of youth are taking to the game with a new seriousness and confidence.

In the Soviet Union last year, 2½ million participated in the national junior championships. Trainers and facilities are not yet available to accomodate the flux of whizzes.

In England, 20-year-old Anthony Miles has just become that country's first grandmaster. There are many other fine young players who will now get the idea that they can do it, too.

And in the U.S. three players, Norman Weinstein (23), James Tarjan (23), and Larry Christiansen (19) have already achieved the first of the two necessary grandmaster norms. Tarjan in fact is, at this writing, in first place in the international tournament at Skopje, Yugoslavia, ahead of the World Champion Anatoly Karpov.

Watch out, Bobby. If you wait too long to return, you may be known as Rip Van Fischer!

New David Beats Old Goliath

The latest sensation in American chess is Joel Benjamin, just turned 12 years old and already an Expert (rating 2022). That level was not reached by the likes of Browne, Weinstein, Tarjan and Rogoff until age 14 or 15!

Below is Benjamin's victory over Authur Feuerstein, once among the country's top ten players

Joel routinely won a pawn in the diagrammed position with 10.NxP!

19th century milk pitcher

By Dorothy Hammond

QUESTION: I would appreciate knowing the monetary value of the decorative old milk pitcher shown in the enclosure. Its height is seven inches, it is unmarked, and its decoration is cherubs in relief, over a cobalt blue and white background. This pitcher was brought to America from Wales in 1890, and originally belonged to a set of three pitchers in graduated sizes. Mrs. A.L.

ANSWER: If perfect, your milk pitcher is worth about $45, on today's market.

QUESTION: I am writing for information on a set of six matching luncheon plates known only to us as Venetian ware. These were a gift to us from my husband's family a number of years ago. They came from Italy. Since neither relative is living, we have been unable to learn more about these pieces. Can you help us?

Each plate is in pristine condition, with no exterior decoration. However, sandwiched between the layers of crystal-clear glass are many, many, tiny white and pink threads or lines joined together, thus producing a criss-cross spiral-like pattern. They are exquisite! Your comments will be appreciated. Mrs. M.F.

ANSWER: You have described "Latticino" glass, developed centuries ago by the Venetians. And the milk-white and pink threads are delicate fibers of glass.

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

The way the historians tell it, Pomona in the early 1890s was well on her way toward becoming the heart of Southern California's orange empire. But was that the true picture so far as Pomona's agricultural status was concerned? At that time, had we or had we not fully decided in what direction our future agrarian greatness lay? With all due respect to our revered and dedicated historians, there does seem to be some evidence that a bit of reasonable doubt concerning the absolute authenticity of their writings would be in order.

I make this startling accusation on the basis of three non-related news items which appeared in a March, 1893, issue of The Pomona Weekly Times. After reading them my faith in historians was, let us say, at least slightly bent. For apparently, contrary to the historical accounts, Pomona's agriculturalists were having a bit of difficulty in 1893 making up their minds about what was really the best thing to do in order to assure themselves of a rewarding financial future.

First there was the item which stated: —"Alfred Wright has taken out all his fig trees and planted olives in their place."

But then, a little farther down in the "Little Locals" column, I read: —"J. E. Packard is offering to trade olive trees for first class lemon trees or Washington navel orange trees."

And finally, to conclusively prove my contention that decisions, decisions, decisions were the frustrating order of the day with Pomona's 1893 agriculturalists, I noted that F. G. Haley was advertising: "— have orange and lemon trees that must be removed from where they are. No reasonable offer will be refused."

There's more than merely gambling to glitter of Las Vegas

Musical spectaculars are a staple of Las Vegas night life.

What is there to do in Las Vegas, the glittering Sin City of the Nevada desert, when someone pulls the plugs on the gambling casinos, show palaces, hotels, restaurants and bars?

The current strike of four major unions against 14 Las Vegas hotels and one casino has effectively shut down many of the city's major pleasure domes and thrown into dramatic relief a fact that many people are unaware of — that the fabled city, internationally known for legal gambling and the glamor of show business, is also the heart of a vast playground of sports and pastimes unrelated to the whir of the roulette wheel or the blare of dance bands.

Even with the casinos and hotels closed, the theaters dark, the lounges deserted, Las Vegas offers a paradise of recreational opportunities for millions of tourists.

Story by Joseph H. Firman
PB staff writer

Within the city itself are a thousand public and private swimming pools, hundreds of tennis courts, most of them lighted, 11 full-length golf courses and three par-3 courses. Within an hour's drive the Las Vegas visitor can go snow skiing in Lee Canyon or water skiing at Lake Mead.

Mt. Charleston, a 12,000-foot-high peak 30 minutes' drive from the desert valley of Las Vegas, offers a Tyrolean setting of tall pines interlaced with hiking trails, mountain streams and campsites. Throughout the Las Vegas area from Lake Mead to Valley of Fire to Red Rock State Park are well-equipped camp sites and rest areas for hikers, horseback riders, picnickers and campers.

A 40-minute drive from Las Vegas takes tourists to the Lake Mead National Recreation Area, formed when the Colorado River was harnessed by Boulder Dam in 1936. Lake Mead boasts 2,000 beach campsites along its 550-mile shoreline and five full-service marinas. All varieties of water sports are enjoyed — swimming, sail and power boating, water skiing and row boating.

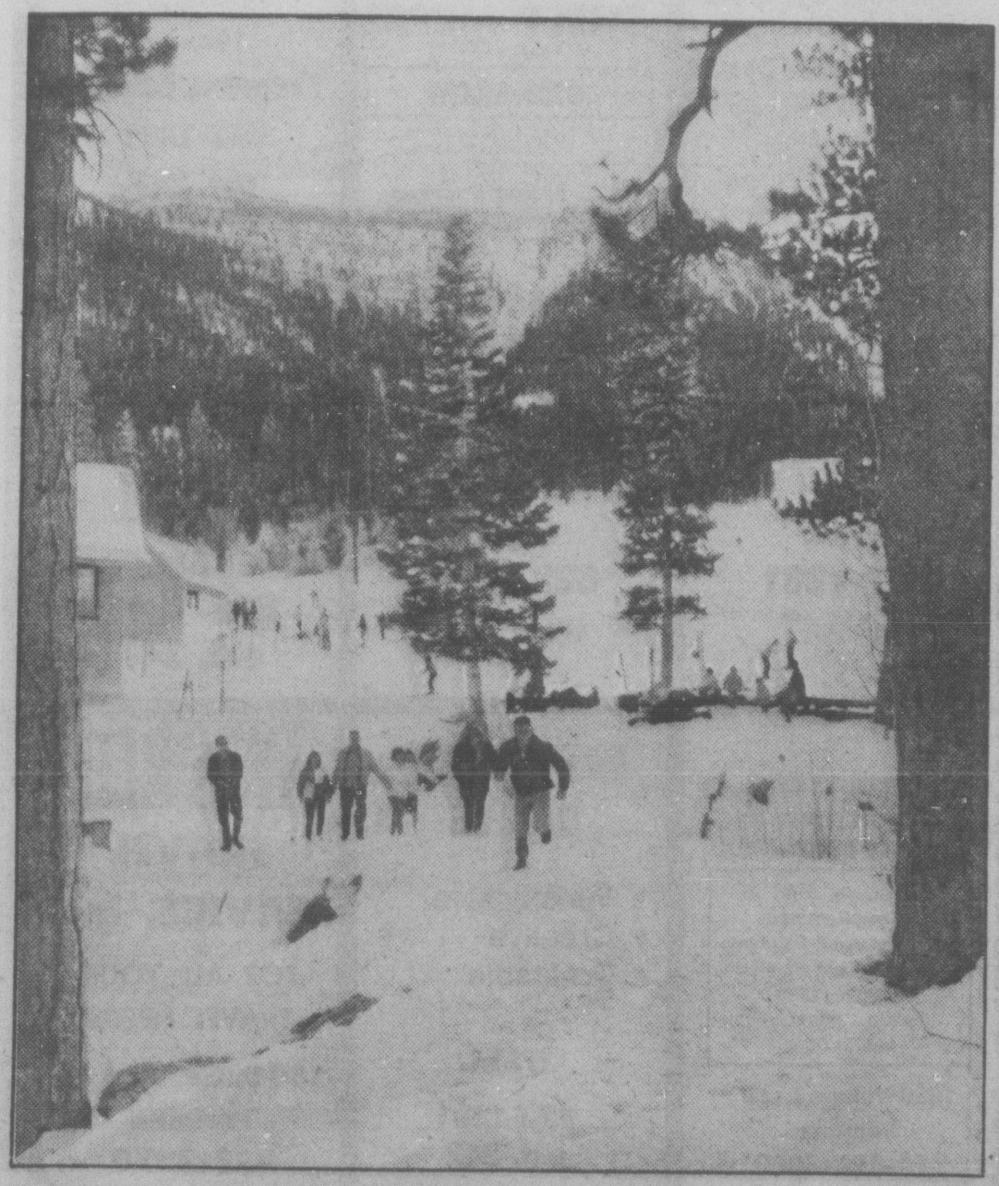
Fishing season at Lake Mead is year-around and the haul includes largemouth bass, silver salmon, trout, crappie, bluegill and others. Striped bass introduced into the lake a few years ago are now being caught up to 25 pounds. The federal government carries on a vigorous program of stocking the lake.

Within an hour's drive of Las Vegas are numerous historical sites and ruins of the frontier days. There are old mines and ghost towns, abandoned railroads, quarries, cabins, and ruined mills. Some of the old towns have been restored and present accurate and active replicas of the Old West, complete with theaters, saloons, shops and homes.

Other places of interest in the Las Vegas area are an old Mormon fort, the Lost City Museum, the Desert Research Institute Museum and the Red Rock Recreation Area where Indian petroglyphs and pictographs are preserved.

In addition to the educational and entertaining survey of the Early American West, visitors are lured by a variety of annual events having nothing to do with slot machines or Broadway shows — the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament, the fall trap shoot at the Del Webb Gun Club, bowling and tennis tournaments and many others.

Whether the strike against the hotels and casino is lifted soon or late, the visitor to Las Vegas will never want for activities appealing to all tastes.



Lee Canyon is a full-facility ski resort with chair lift, T-bars and rope tows.

ON THE COVER

There's more to Las Vegas than roulette wheels and Broadway shows. A few of the activities that entertain 8.5 million visitors a year, (clockwise from upper left): Walking tours through the Valley of Fire, swimming at resort hotels, horseback riding in Red Rock Canyon, enjoying water sports at Lake Mead and tennis at all the major hotels.

The roulette wheel is a popular fixture in "the entertainment capital of the world."

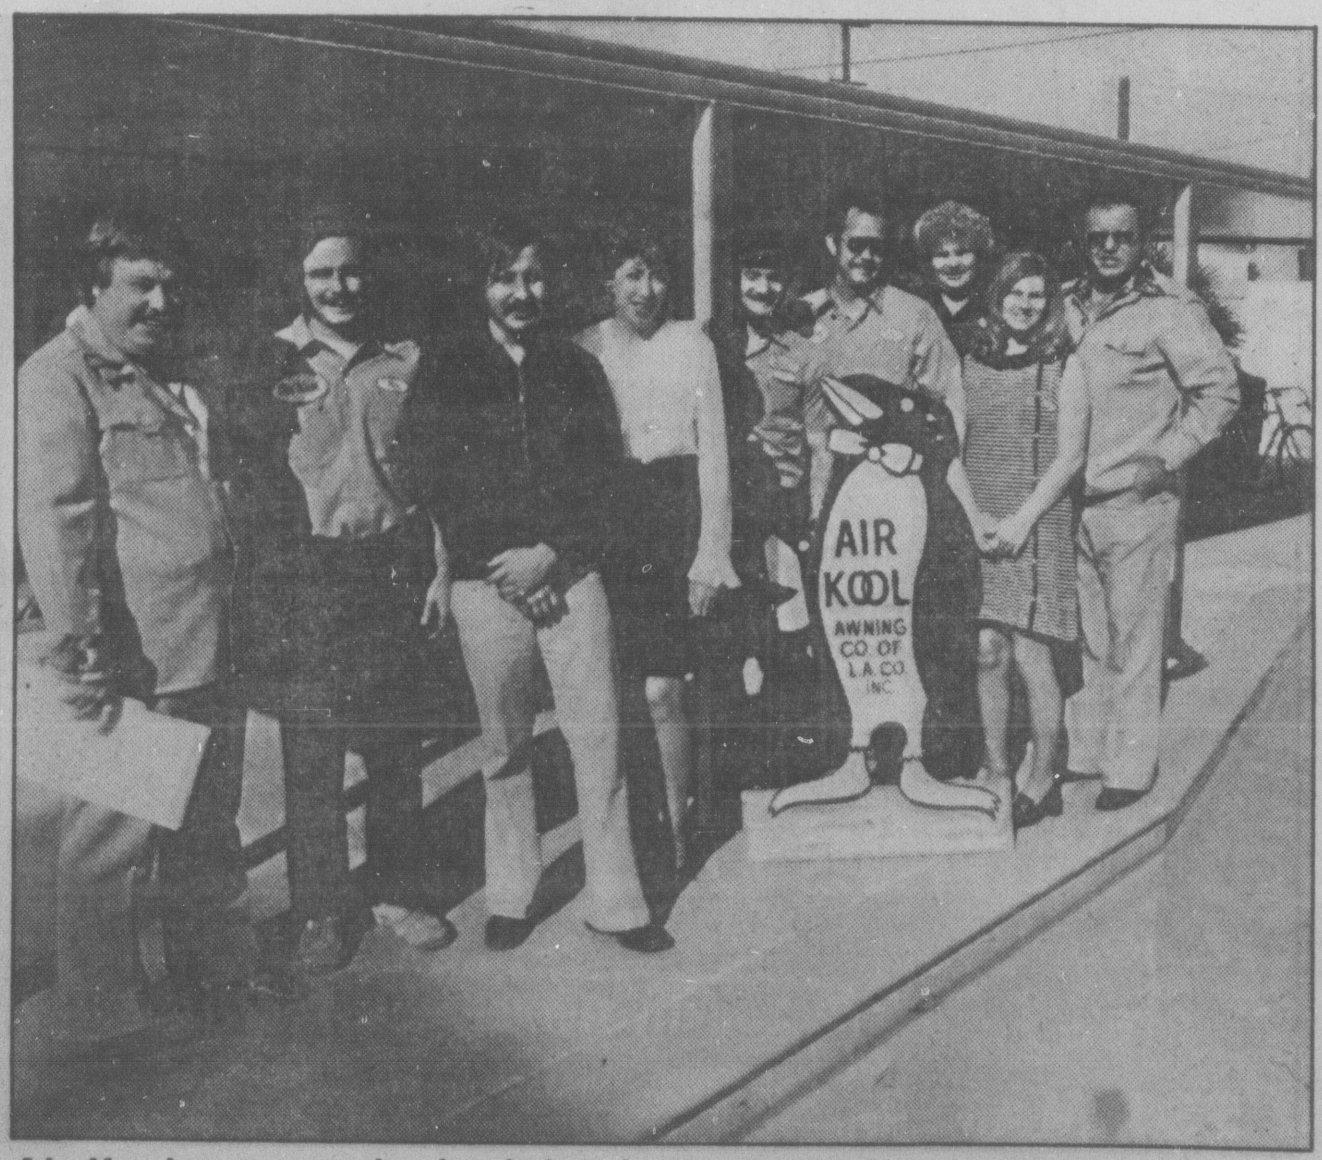
This is the Granada patio enclosure being offered by Air Kool

An old firm...

...adds a new line



Air Kool personnel who bring beauty, comfort to homes in valley

Air Kool, a leading manufacturer of aluminum patio covers and enclosures for the home, is adding a new line of insulation to its stock.

Known as Kool Coat, a product of Kenitex, the coating will outlast all other finishes on the market, according to Hale Benton, president of the Covina company.

Benton announced the appointment of Dale Hefner as vice president of the Kool Coat division. Hefner will oversee marketing and installation of the new line.

Kool Coat, because of its thickness, durability and color fastness, is guaranteed to last at least 15 years, Hefner said. The finish is available in 16 colors.

Using the slogan, "Why Move, Improve," Benton also announced the start of a three-week sale on Granada patio enclosures, the models which feature the flat pan roof and two-inch insulation walls, as well as on patio covers and window awnings. The sale ends April 15.

Benton said much of the savings is possible through a process developed by Dan Anderson, a district manager, which cuts down installation costs. Anderson was named Air Kool's most imaginative employe last year.

Design and quality of Air Kool are protected by the reputation of Jack Gordon, an Air Kool designer who has won trophies for creating new patios for the seventh straight year.

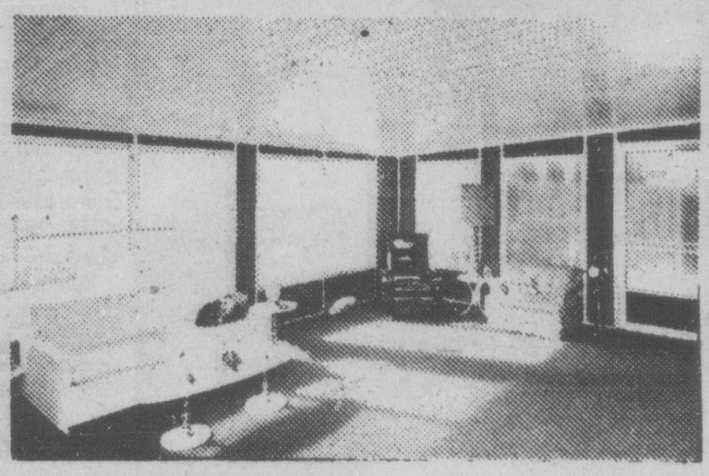
The president of the Covina firm said the company's competitive cost policy is the result of a "very efficient installation crew." He said that because Air Kool is financially sound, it can obtain better loan rates from banks than other firms.

Other key employes of the company include Michael Valentich, general manager; Jim Covington head of the wholesale division, and Dallas McCurry, wholesale manager.

The company is located at 581 E. San Bernardino Road in Covina. From that location it serves a large portion of Los Angeles County, as well as San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties.

WHY MOVE...? IMPROVE!

Do not confuse our enclosed patios with high cost room additions.



Enclose your existing wood or aluminum patio roof and increase the value of your home. Beautify your old roof with an insulated drop ceiling.

Learn to read and you will fly away

About 40 students at Garey High School who, with the help of teachers Darrell L. Ruppel, are learning to read English, are working to raise money to finance a May trip to Sacramento.

A large number of the students in the group are Vietnamese.

"The challenge of teaching the Asian student has provided all of us with new and exciting problems as well as some opportunity for new and creative and innovating programing," said Ruppel.

"It is our feeling at Garey that we must not only develop skills in basic skill areas, such as reading, writing and spelling, but develop them in a practical and worthwhile content area."

To this end, Ruppel and other Garey staff members selected California history as a springboard.

The basic text is built around fourth-grade curriculum which, Ruppel said, indicated the reading level of the Asian student and many of the Mexican, black and white students.

"These students are all having problems with the English language," said Ruppel. "Upon completion of this course, we will all travel to Sacramento."

There is one catch. The students must finance their own trip. To date they have earned $350. They need $1,300 Ruppel said.

Anyone in the community who would like to assist this class with its project may contact Ruppel at Garey, 623-5251, Ext. 334. He and the students will hold a Community Work Day on April 9 as a fund raiser.

Ruppel said PSA has agreed to fly the students to Sacramento and back for half-fare.

The class has written to Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-32nd Dist., Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., State Schools Supt. Wilson Riles, and Gov. Jerry Brown. All but Brown have responded.

Susan Oda is the first student from Garey High to become a finalist in the California Scholarship Federation's "Seymour" scholarship competition.

She is one of 10 finalists chosen in the Southern Region of the California Scholarship Federation, which is one of five in the state.

Susan will be attending a conference with the other finalists and the judging committee at the University of California at San Diego on March 27. At the conference, two winners, a boy and a girl, will be named from each of the five regions. The winners will receive a $500 award, and the other finalists will receive a $200 award. Susan will have the opportunity to attend several conference sessions while at the University. Anthropologist Margaret Mead will be one of the speakers.

Vocal group set at UCLA

The Western Wind, vocal chamber music ensemble, will make its West Coast debut with a concert in UCLA's Schoenberg Hall at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

The six artists are Janet Steele and Janet Sullivan, sopranos; William Zukof, countertenor; Lawrence Bennett and William Lyon Lee, tenors, and Elliot Levine, baritone.

From its repertoire, which ranges from music of the Middle Ages to the latest voices-with-electronic-sounds of the 20th century, the sextet will offer a varied program of "Music in the New World." Included are folk songs of North America, songs from 16th and 17th centuries Latin America, Christian Religious songs, Hebrew madrigals and barbershop quartets.

Last summer, the Western Wind spent three weeks as artists-in-residence at Dartmouth College and appeared at New York City University and the Summer Music Associates Festival in New London, N.H.

During the 1974-75 season, the group sang at the Ives Centennial in Connecticut, for the Renaissance and Baroque Society of Pittsburgh and at Columbia University and Bryn Mawr College.

The sextet also has sung for the Renaissance Society of America, the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival, the Cloisters of the Metropolitan Museum, New Hampshire's St. Gauden's Memorial, and other colleges, universities and concert halls.

Seats for the Schoenberg Hall appearance may be obtained at the UCLA Central Ticket Office, 650 Westwood Plaza, and all Mutual and Liberty agencies.

'Airport' to fly again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It had to happen. Having made millions with "Airport" and "Airport 1975," Universal Pictures has announced the coming of "Airport 1977."

As with the first sequel, William Frye will produce, with Jennings Lang as executive producer. Making his debut as a theatrical feature director will be Jerry Jameson, who directed "The Deadly Tower" on television.

The script was written by David Spector, 31, and Michael Scheff, 34, one-time students at San Francisco State College.
